"All the world's a stage,
And all the men and women merely players.
They have their exits and their entrances;
And one man in his time plays many parts."
Shakespeare: As You Like It III vii

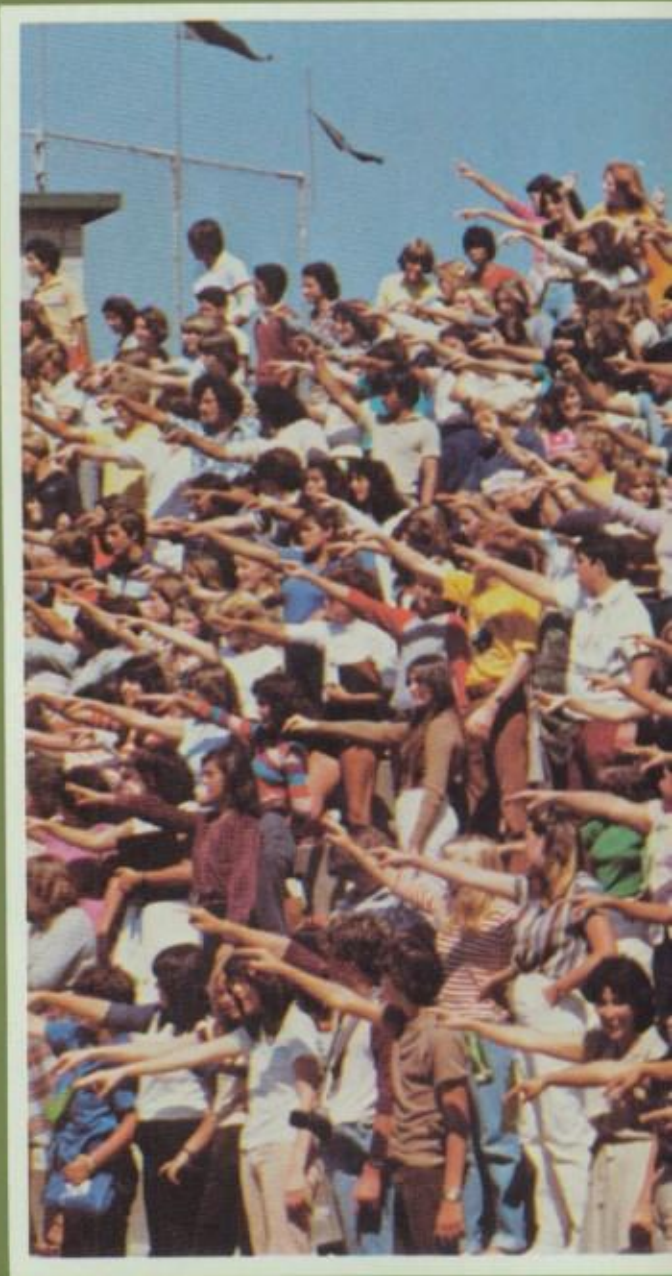

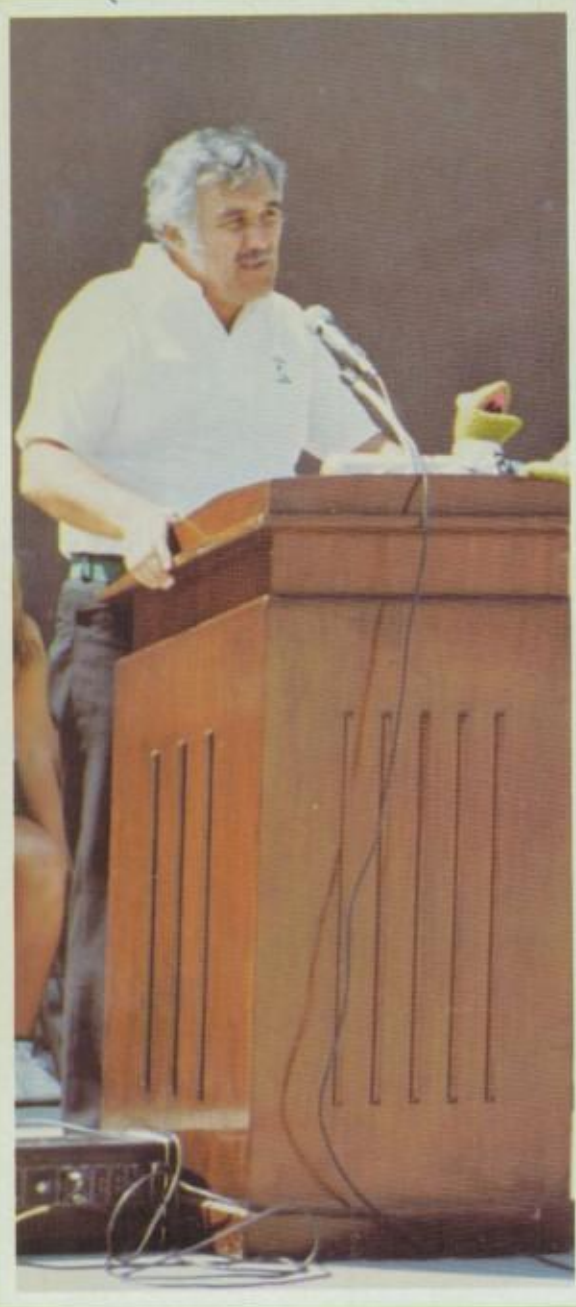

Shakespeare has always been noted for his insight into the nature of human beings, but few of his statements were as intuitive and timeless as this one. While we seldom realize it, we spend each of our days acting out complicated plots and sub-plots, changing our character to meet situations, following directions, and speaking lines, just like the actors in a play. We are therefore dedicating this issue of the IDYLL to the outgrowth of everyday life: theatre.

Applause

"The Countdown has just begun, shout it out, who's number one?" the class competition yell would resound through the amphitheatre during pep assemblies. Each speaker during the assembly stood before the roaring crowd, telling the Lancers what they already knew: Hilltop was the best. The cheerleaders performed routines and skits. And at the end, the crowd rose to its feet to sing the fight song and the alma mater. Every senior, junior, and sophomore was infected by the end of each assembly with Lancer pride, spirit and laryngitis.

The theatrics of a pep assembly were responsible for the spirit they ignited. It was impossible for students to sit by uninvolved as the Lancer fever of the coaches, team members, and cheerleaders spread like wildfire. Each speech, routine, and skit was written to make Lancers laugh and cheer at alternate intervals. The spirit of the Lancers and the principles of the theatre combined during a pep assembly to give students and teachers alike an enjoyable time.

Barbara,
Hi (high), this year has been a great
one but you made it even better. Hope you have a killer summer and see you at the beach.
Love,

The Show Must Go On

"The show must go on" is a familiar phrase to actors and theatre-goers alike. Most commonly, it is used in regards to a missing star or prop, but it also relates to life in general. Most of us have been depressed at times, sometimes by a lost football game, a broken romance, a failed test or for no good reason at all, and often feel that we won't make it for another day. But, as football players discover, regardless of a lost game, practices continue. Bereft lovers eventually find someone else to turn their attentions to, and most students manage to redeem themselves on their next test. For the most part, getting through the depression is the hardest. Afterwards we can look back and laugh at our misfortunes. But until we can, we do well to remember that the show must go on.

Clockwise from upper left; Jamie McGinnis has a frog fetish; Christy Hughes has a bad day; Lise Kaseman all bummed out; Calvin Gentry kicks back after the dance; Tom Hinzo shows CIF style; A child in distress; Maria Valdez feels the agony of defeat; Janet Barrick rests between songs.

Barbara,
 Though we haven't seen each
 other much this year,
 we had some good times
 last summer. You have an excellent summer! Always keep on smilin! Keep in touch and take care of yourself. Love

San Diego America's Finest City

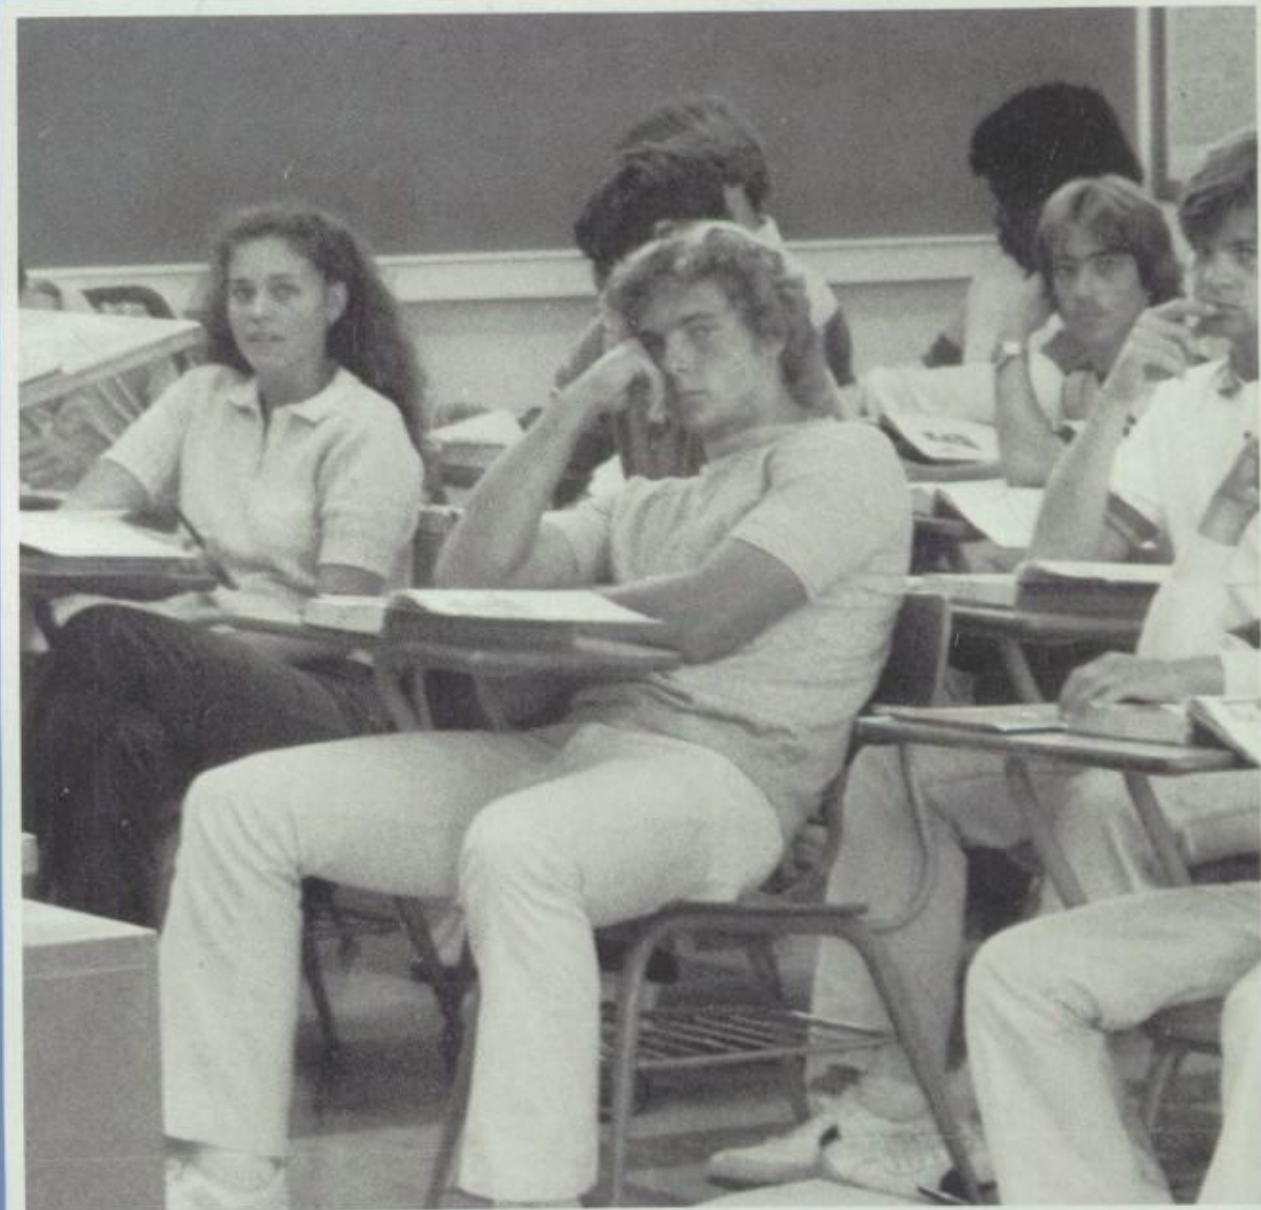

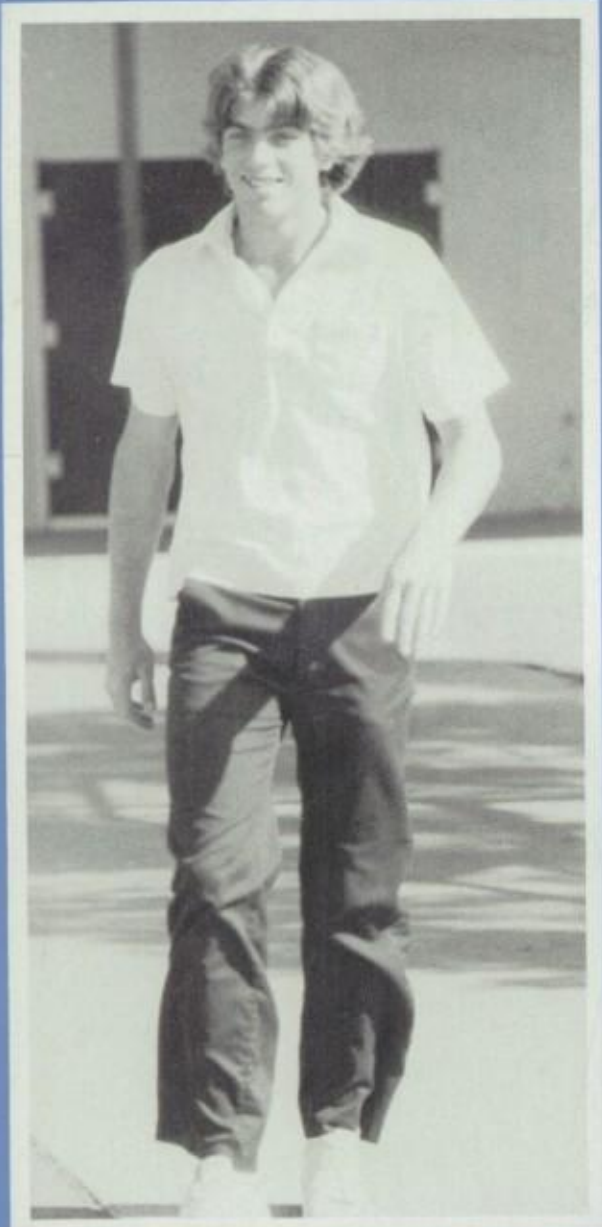

San Diego is a city of excitement, change, and beauty. Thousands of tourists visit our city every year to enjoy the sunshine, beaches, and other attractions San Diego has to offer. The zoo, Sea World, Seaport Village, and Balboa Park are all sightseeing attractions. For San Diegans, the city is even more diverse. The addition of the trolley has broadened the horizons of many natives, providing transportation from the border to downtown. Charger games added another dimension to life in America's finest city. Thousands of fans turned out at Jack Murphy Stadium to cheer the Chargers on. The skyline of downtown San Diego on a clear day, the Hotel Del Coronado, the Coronado Bay Bridge, and Seaport Village were beautiful sights both tourists and natives alike could enjoy. San Diego is a city of many aspects, which makes it not only a nice place to visit, but also a nice place to live.

Show It With Expressions

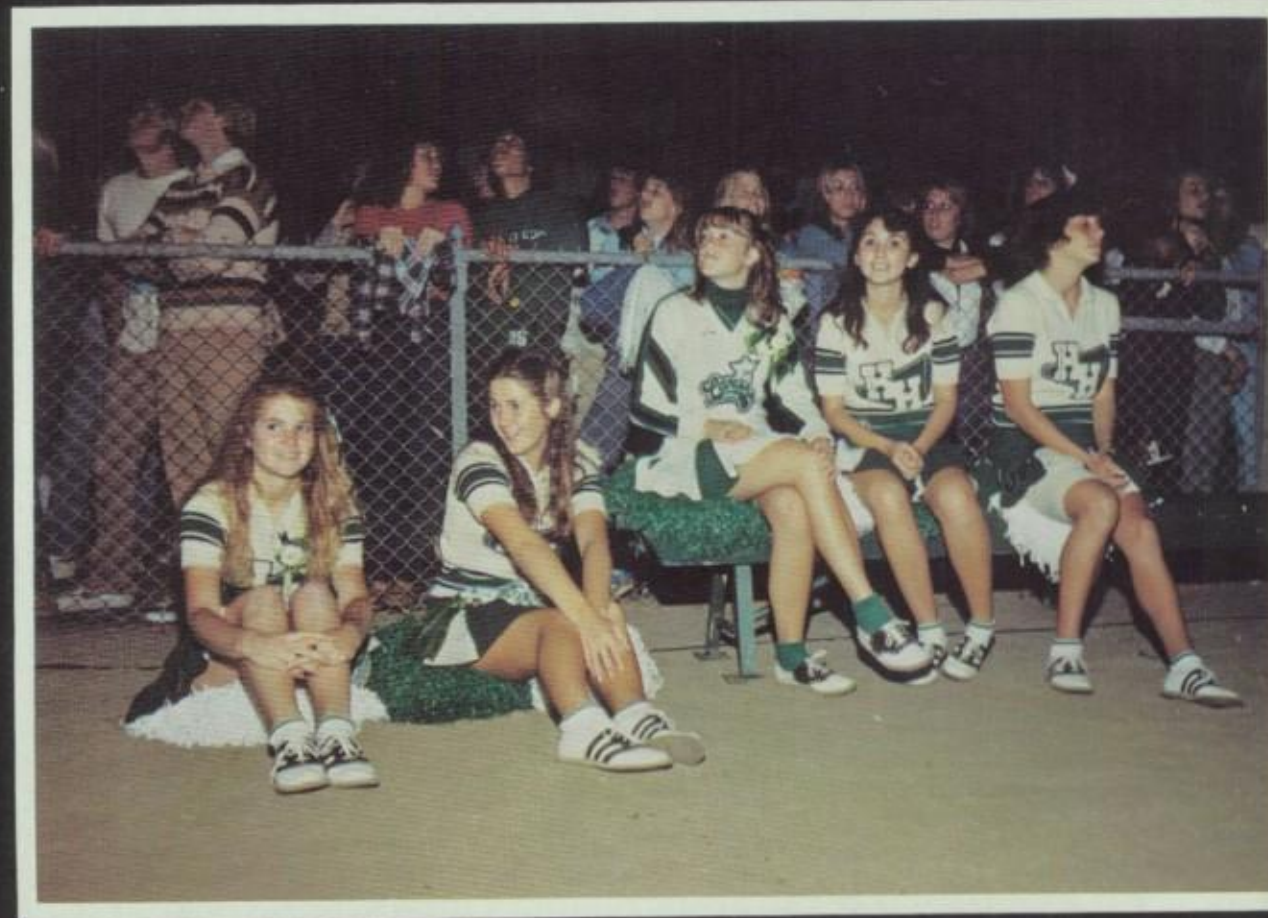

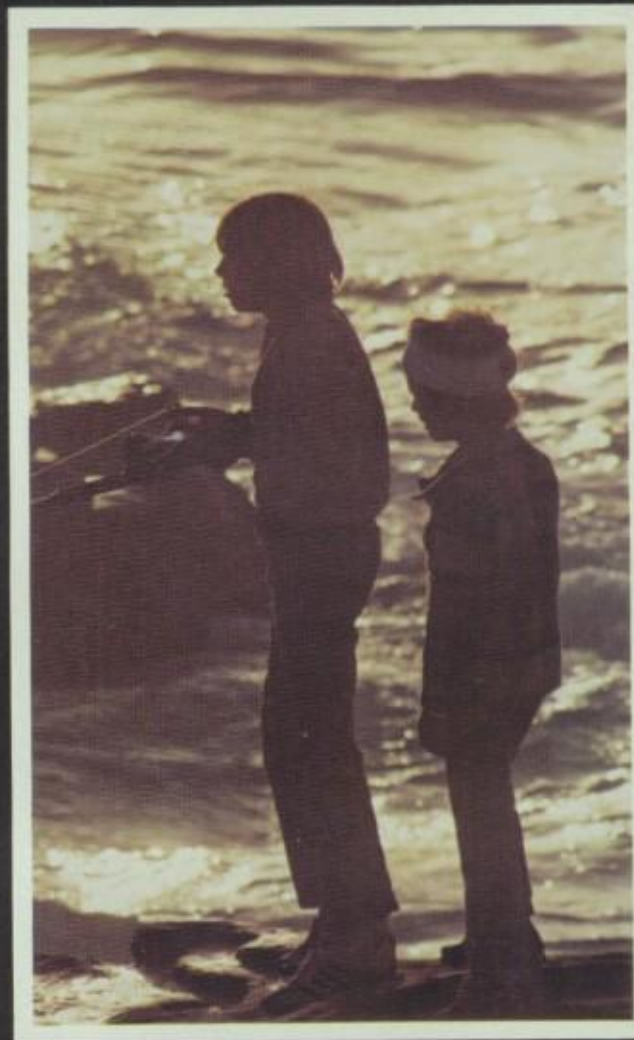

Actors and actresses rely a great deal on expressions to help them convey responses to others. Without the proper expressions, the world of stage would be very unreal. For stage productions, however, the expressions contrived by the actors and actresses are solely for the purpose of audience understanding, and are therefore somewhat easier to evaluate. The students at Hilltop High were not always easy to understand. The IDYLL staff's cameras captured on film the feelings of happiness, depression, anger, and joy over the year. Because "a picture paints a thousand words," those on this page will be left to speak for themselves.

Memories . . .

Do you remember when . . .
 Yeah, it's been a while.
 Or what about the time we . . .
 And you just nod and smile.
 How long did you say it's been?
 An hour, a week, a year?
 It seems like it was yesterday,
 Far away, but near.
 There are names I can't recall,
 Faces I can't see.
 Was it really simple then,
 Or did it just seem to be?
 Why are there some memories
 That grow inside your head?
 Why are there so many
 That you simply put to bed?
 What do you remember?
 Is it dances, games, or parties you see?
 And while we're on the subject,
 Hey, do you remember me?

If the only aspect of school was the time spent in the classroom there is no doubt students and teachers would suffer from a massive outbreak of "cabin fever." Fortunately for the Lancers, there were clubs, activities, dances, and various other organizations to provide a sort of intermission. In a play or movie, intermissions are planned at crucial moments. They may be halfway through, when the real conflict is becoming clear, at the end of an act which is suspenseful or ends on a high note, or, perhaps, just to change the reel of film when it runs out. Whatever the reason, the intermission allows an audience some time for themselves, to talk about the play, and to recover from the tension or other energy created by it. The various campus organizations allowed students much the same thing — an intermission from the pressures created in the classroom, and a direction in which to channel their interests.

The leaders at Hilltop this year were truly cooperative and hardworking individuals. The officers were voted in by the student body with Blake Armbrust as President, Joey Koski as Vice President, and Tracey Chew as Secretary. They decided this was going to be a year based on Lancer pride and unity!

The year started off with annual "Howdy Dance" and the students began to unify as the summer came to a close. As Homecoming neared, enthusiasm spread throughout the student body. The people of ASB spent many hours in preparation of the success of Homecoming. The Homecoming week was filled with lunch-time activities, BMOC candidates, assemblies, and the crowning of Homecoming Queen, Ann Wachowiak. All the credit of Homecoming 1981 belongs to the hard work of the ASB and a unified student body. After Homecoming, the ASB organized school activities, dances, and much more for which the 1981-82 school year will be remembered as one of Hilltop's best.

Stars of the Intermission

The 1981-82 Lance and Pennon, Hilltop's only service organization, was a major factor in making this year the smashing success it was. They gave up much of their time and devoted it to raising money for students to enjoy sports competition, dances, and a trip to Disneyland at the end of the year. They raised funds for clubs and events as well. Besides being an organization which occupied certain Lancers' time, the Lance and Pennon provided what some students called lunch, others called breakfast, and hungry dieters called a snack. It was also a place where students could simply relax and talk with friends. The efforts of the Lance and Pennon were appreciated by all who came in touch with their work.

The Power of Pep!

Lancers Unite

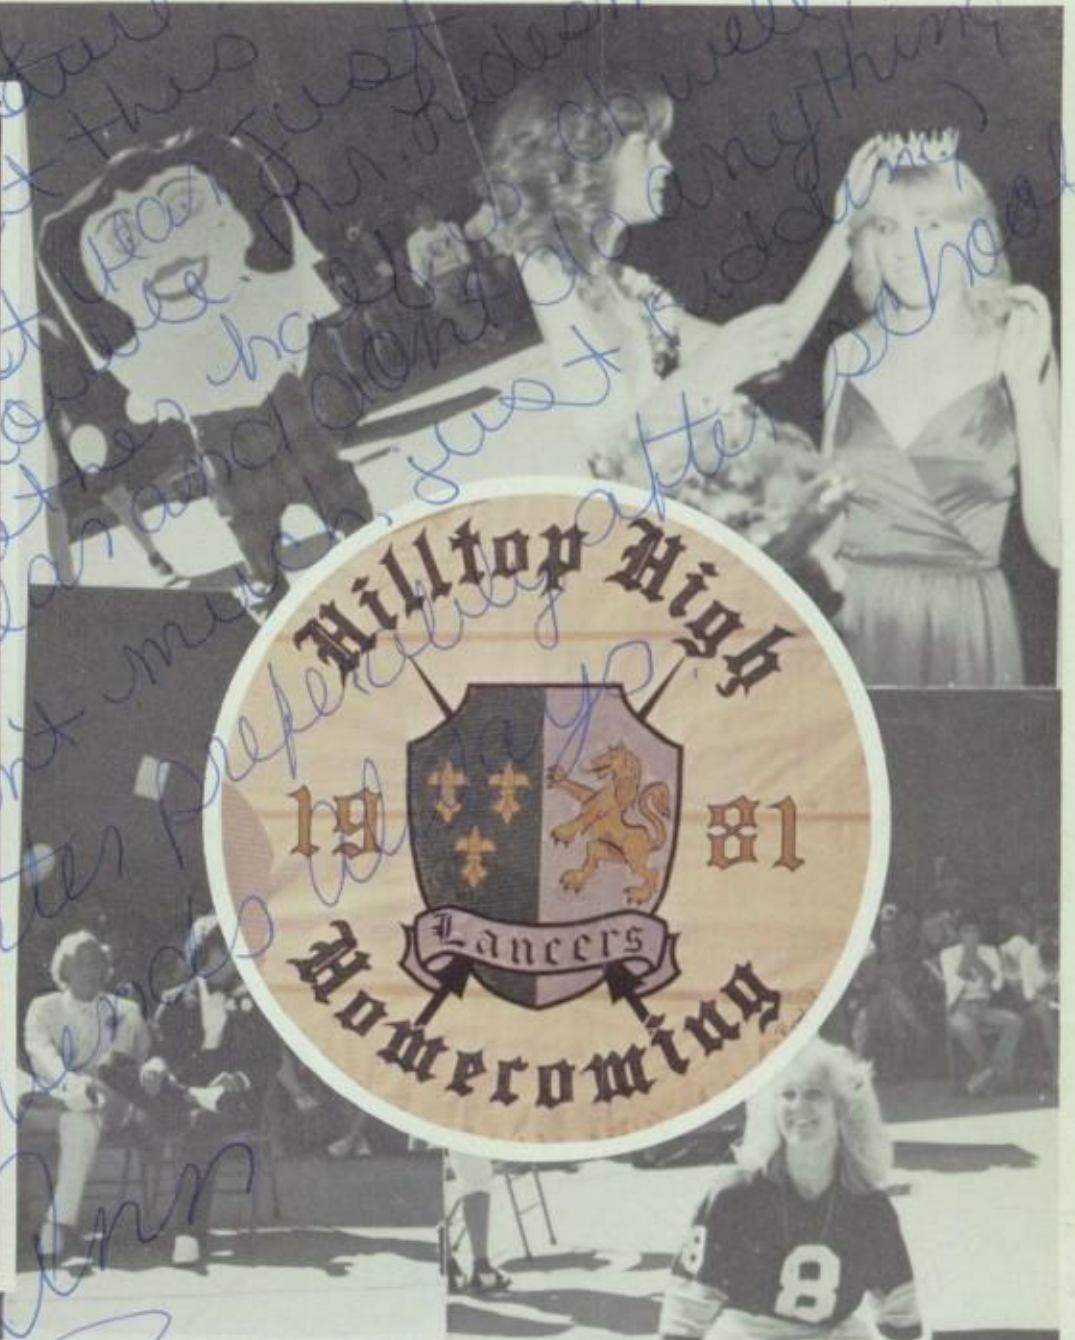

GO, FIGHT, WIN! That's exactly what the 1981-82 Pep club members encouraged Hilltop's athletes to do. They painted posters, cheered the teams on to victory, and kept Lancer spirit alive and strong throughout the year. It took many hours of work and effort which proved to be well spent time. Their common goal: to maintain as high a level of enthusiasm in the student body and athletic teams as possible; a goal which they readily accomplished. Their advice to future Pepsters: Keep reaching for the stars!

Homecoming Week The Main Event

Barbara, sorry to miss you in class! Tomorrow, we will have a great summer! Love, Ann Homecoming week was an exciting time for the whole student body of Hilltop High. Between lunchtime activities, the BMOC race, pep assemblies, and the dance, everyone was caught up in a whirlwind of spirit and vitality. Brave students from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes participated in such crazy activities as tricycle and refrigerator box races for class competition points. The Big Man on Campus candidates busied themselves with selling candy, cookies, and even themselves on the day of the slave auction. The Homecoming princesses waded through a week of anticipation and nervousness until the big night arrived. The Homecoming festivities ended Friday night with the crowning of Ann Wachowiak as 1981's Homecoming Queen.

The Lancerettes and Specialty Corps

All For One and One For All

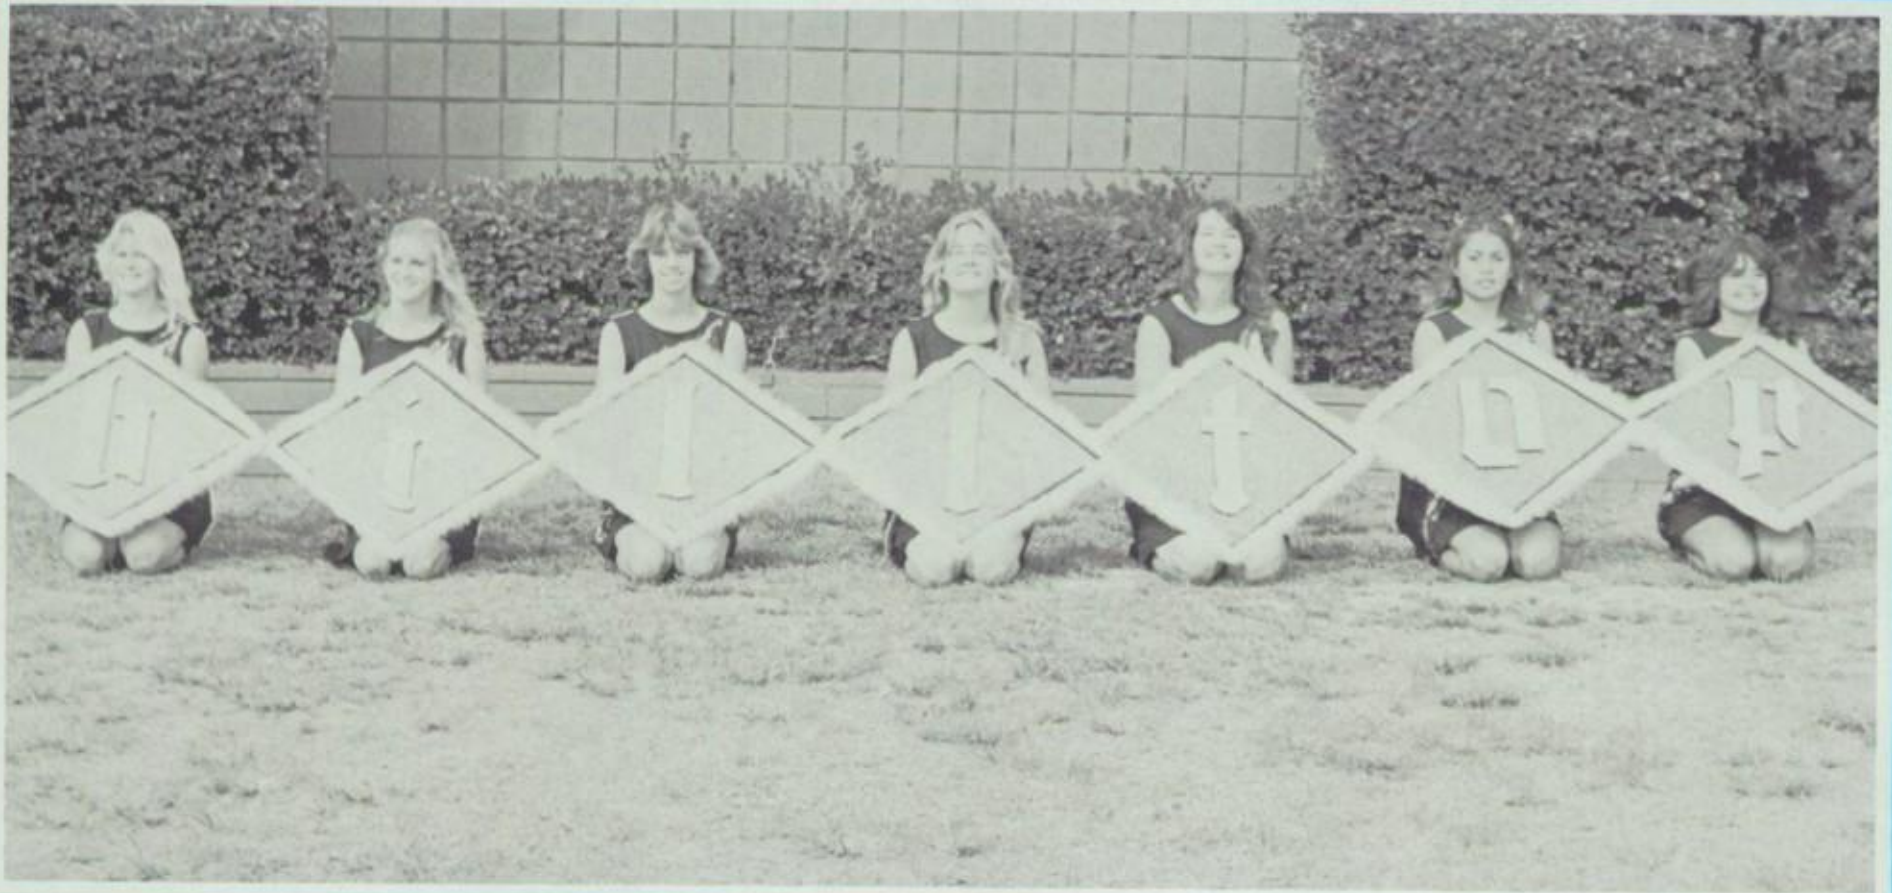

The Lancerettes and Specialty Corps have been a symbol of pride, endurance, and the goal of perfection for many years. They have brought home first place prizes with the help of the band for as long as most Lancers can remember. The Lancerettes and Specialty Corps spent many hours rehearsing and memorizing many difficult movements. They were seen together several times a week during after school hours, striving for perfection in their routines. They marched in parades, entered competitions, and did halftime shows. Their goal was to win the All-Western and Maytime band reviews. With the help of their coordinator/choreographer Amy Mack, that goal was well within reach. Above all, the Lancerettes and Specialty Corps have demonstrated that togetherness counts.

Rhapsody in Green

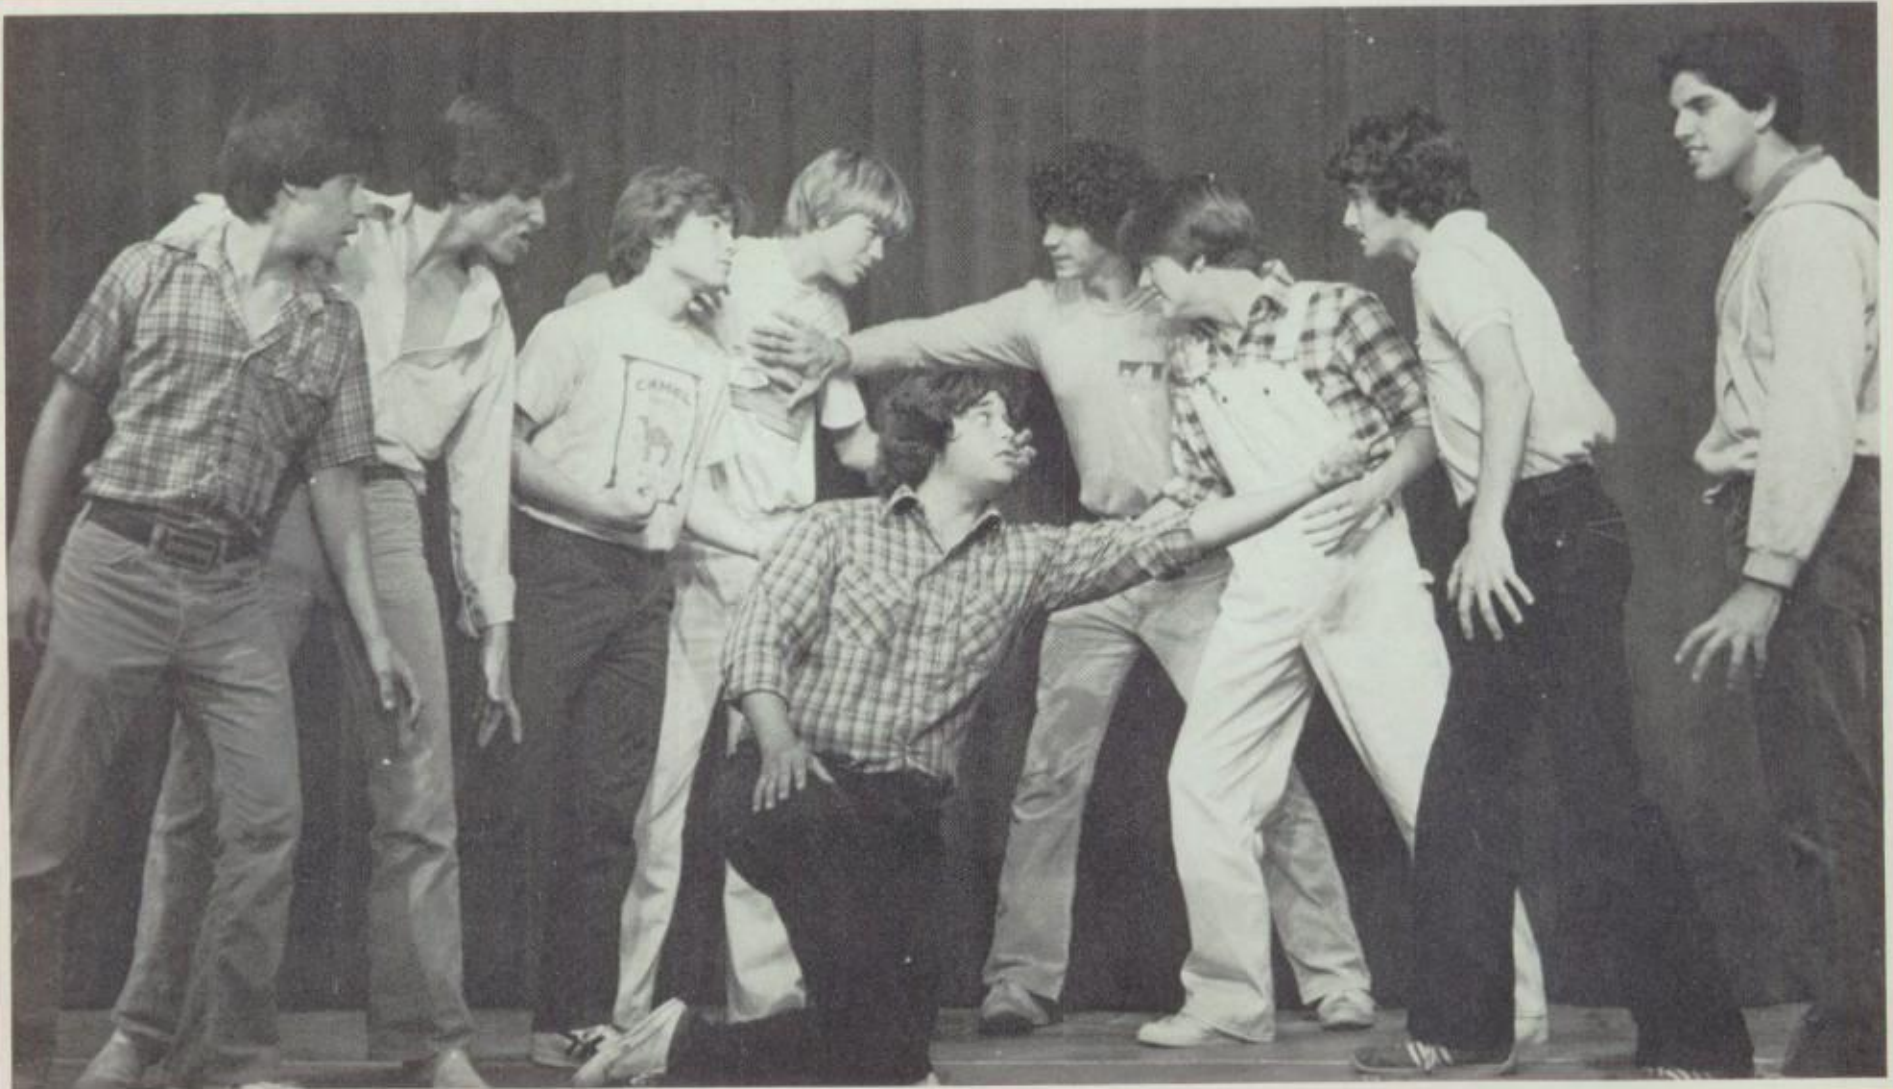

The Hilltop High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Don Marshall, was one of the best Hilltop had seen in ten years. Their hard work and dedication not only aroused the spirits of fellow Hilltoppers, but also brought them very high rankings in the many contests in which they participated. Our musical Lancers could be seen rehearsing in the band room and on the field during fifth and sixth periods, and working hard after school on street practice. The band performed their numbers at home football games and at pep assemblies, and helped to create a sense of pride and unity among all Hilltop students.

It's Just A Fantasy

Theatre Guild has always been a special organization, but this year it was even better. The members decided that in addition to the activities of previous years they would also have Theatre Guild T-shirts, locker pals for opening night, and craft contributions to the Art Fair, since they would not be able to perform the traditional Art Fair pantomimes. Aside from their Evening of One-Acts in the fall and the spring play, our brilliant thespians also competed in the Scenes Festival and One-Acts Festival. To conclude the year, they had their annual Theatre Guild Awards Banquet. All of the Theatre Guild's hard work paid off with a productive and entertaining year.

Enter . . .

As most students learned in their first few weeks at Hilltop, there were many activities and organizations to break the monotony of classroom life. For most, these on-campus activities consisted of lunchtime activities, clubs, sports, and dances.

Lunchtime activities were organized by the ASB. They included such zany events as tricycle races, and BMOC candidate auctions. For those who participated, these events were a chance to have some extra excitement in their lives, and for the audience, it was just pure fun to laugh at the antics of other braver Lancers.

There were a variety of clubs on campus, ranging from the intellectual to those that were fitness oriented. This allowed students with many diversified interests to join the club of their choice.

Of course, Hilltop also offered many sports to students, including the well-known football to the newly instituted girl soccer team. Having so many sports was an asset for Hilltop students, because many of them could become involved in one or another.

Stage Right

Dances, of course, were a chance for students to get a little crazy, enjoy some music, and spend time with friends. It was also a chance, as most noticed, for Lancers to dress in far-out costumes without being stared at like crazy people.

Lancers had another chance this year to dress up in freaky costumes, and that was, naturally, Halloween. The ASB organized a contest and awarded prizes for the most original, scariest, and funniest costumes. Not only did this liven up lunch period, but also gave Lancers a chance to laugh or sigh with delight at the interesting costumes their peers came up with.

For Lancers, school was more than just an educational institution; it was also a place where students could get together, socialize with friends, and have a few laughs.

The Lance's goal this year was “to become more like a professional newspaper!” The staff concentrated more on layouts and writing, hoping to become an even better editorial type of newspaper. Having many photographers also helped, because it gave them the opportunity to add more pictures to the Lance than in previous years.

But what is work without play? The Lance answered this question by having parties. They sold candy canes, and celebrated advisor, Mr. Brelsford's retirement. Of all these, the celebration for Mr. Brelsford was the most significant. At the end of the year they held a banquet.

The staff was proud of its accomplishments and hoped they produced a newspaper that everyone could remember and enjoy.

The IDYLL Makers

Being on the annual staff was not all fun and games, as any member could have told you. A week before the first deadline new staffers were struggling to finish their copy, layouts, and pictures, and seasoned members were discovering that nothing had changed. Meeting deadlines involved weeks of hard work by those dedicated enough to continue the tradition of fine yearbooks that Hilltop has always produced. This goal was not accomplished without the gnashing of teeth, wringing of necks, and rolling of heads. In fact, it was surprising that everyone remained friends until the end of the year, but by having perseverance, determination, and throwing various parties, they managed.

Throughout the year, the main concern of the IDYLL staff was to fully develop the book's theme of theatre. Easy as it may sound to an outsider, thinking of headlines, finding pictures to fit these headlines, and writing copy was often very difficult. However, with the support and guidance of advisor, John Scott, and the leadership of senior staff members Darlene White, editor, Jenne Geno, photo editor, and Barbara Jaques, copy editor, the staff produced a quality yearbook which students could enjoy for many years to come.

"Steppin-Out" has a potential of outstanding quality," according to Mr. Bob Eubanks the director of Hilltop High's Ensemble. He also said they were cooperative, dedicated, and probably would be one of the top groups in the district. "Steppin-Out" is a show-oriented group which does singing and dancing numbers to popular music. The members could be seen before and during school rehearsing their numbers until they had their show down to perfection. Working with accompanist, Lauren Walden, and choreographer, John Barnes, helped the Ensemble to have a very successful year, as shown by their high rankings in festivals, their June Pops Concert, and their Fall Concert. For the 1981-82 Ensemble, the year was a productive one.

Born To Run

The Fun Runner's Club was founded several years ago on the premise that students should be able to participate in running events without joining a sport. The members jogged together in certain events, mainly for the fun of it. Many times they just got together, ran for a while, and then gathered at Mrs. Janet Balsley's home for a barbeque or pizza. They also contributed to the Art Fair, and spent many hours working on the items they sold. The Fun Runners seemed to enjoy the work they put into preparing for their runs, and found great satisfaction from the fact that they were not only having fun, but were also developing healthy bodies.

Knights of the Square Table

Pawns, Knights, Bishops! That's what members of the 1981-82 Chess Club had on their minds. Once a week, these masterminds gathered in the battlefield of Mr. Robinson's room to engage in grueling tournaments and exchange valuable information on the game of chess. They gained experience and knowledge of the game, a game which involves skill, logic and concentration. It is also, as chess players will tell you, a lot of fun. Who knows, among this year's chess players there may very well be a future champion.

Money Makes Their World Go Around

Once again, the Business Club has succeeded in accomplishing all of their future goals. With the help of Advisor Mrs. Lawry, officers Karen Williams, Lisa Pisano, Kelly Rayburn, and all of its members this club has gone to the top!

With one thing in mind, "Encouraging girls to enter the business field" the Business Club sold Ronald McDonald coupon booklets, participated in the annual Art Fair, and celebrated National Secretaries Day. But these were only few of the many activities planned. Of all the activities, selling the Ronald McDonald coupon booklets was probably the most inspirational. Most of the profits from these coupon booklets went to the Ronald McDonald House located here in San Diego County. This house is for patients of Children's Hospital and their parents and gives them the opportunity to live together with homey surroundings. This institution is very special to those families who live in San Diego and must deal with this problem. Hilltop High's Business Club was very proud to contribute to such a worthwhile cause. The Art Fair followed soon afterward, an activity many of the members looked forward to. The Business Club sold headbands, potpourri, cloth-frames, and other nifty items. This club has been active in and out of school and the members of the Business Club are very proud of its many accomplishments.

Wizards of Art.

"When the pen is mightier than the sword, it can do many things." The members of the 1981-82 Art Guild proved this statement to be true. As in previous years, they spent many hours after school preparing well-designed pep ribbons to sell during football season. When the annual Art Fair was held in December, the Art Guild contributed various items, all of which were sold for charity. But the Art Guild was not just for those who were talented with a drawing pen and paper. The club attracted many who just had an interest in art. With the guidance of Mr. Alva Thomas, and the cooperation of all the members, the 1981-82 Art Guild's hours of work proved to be time well spent.

Girls' League Shows Vigor

It was apparent from the first day of school that the 1981-82 Girls' League was going to play a very important part in the school year. From the Big Sister/Little Sister Breakfast in September until the Dad/Daughter Dinner in May, the Girls' League officers and representatives were never at rest. While it may sound to some as if Girls' League concerned itself only with girls, it played an active role in many campus life activities. In October, they raised funds by selling Homecoming Mums and by sponsoring the Big Man On Campus race. These funds went towards the Girls' League Formal in February, an event which every Lancer looked forward to. As the year drew to a close, Girls' League began preparing for the 1982-83 school year.

A Moment to Remember

The 1982 Girls' League Formal was anticipated with high spirits by many Hilltop students. When the evening finally arrived, all the couples were enjoying the fine music of "Tasty" and eating Hors d'oeuvres. The Islandia Ballroom on Mission Bay served as an excellent location for the annual dance. The 1982 Girls' League officers, along with the help of Miss Sybert, did a fantastic job on the bids and decorations. Surely, March 5, 1982 will be a moment to remember.

Clockwise from upper left: One of the many couples having a great time; Robert McMains and his partner dance enthusiastically; Sally Rasario remembers this is a formal dance.

C.S.F.ers: A Standing Ovation

First Semester Members

Every year outstanding performances by extremely talented actors are recognized when awards are given out. In the same manner, students with outstanding grades who excel in their studies are also recognized. They are accepted as members of the California Scholarship Federation, abbreviated by most people as C.S.F.

In 1916, Charles F. Seymour introduced the idea of a state-wide scholarship society and in 1921 the C.S.F. constitution was drafted and soon after became California Law. The Seymour Memorial Awards were inaugurated soon after the death of Mr. Seymour in 1935. Each spring, outstanding boy and girl sealbearers are chosen from nominees all over the state. The awards are based upon leadership, scholarship, character, and service.

C.S.F. requirements specify that a student must earn a minimum of ten points, A=3, B=1, C=0, 7 of which must be taken from list subjects (List subjects are determined by each school) and 3 of which may be earned in non-listed subjects, excluding P.E. Only 5 courses can be used to compute eligibility points.

C.S.F. 1982 was led by Nolan Frankel, Pres, Randy David, V.P. and Nick Joseph, Sec, and will be remembered by its members and leaders alike not as a time consuming club but rather an honor society which they were very much a part of.

Academic Stars Shine At Hilltop

As in the past, Hilltop High School has worked towards academic excellence. Hilltop High's faculty has constantly strived for perfection and has tried to broaden each Lancer's mind academically.

With such courses as Humanities, Psychology, Chemistry, Biology and Math Analysis there has always been a pathway to academic achievement. For Lancers who wished to achieve that goal, there have always been excellent teachers to guide them. Because of such teachers as Mr. Love, Mr. Stough, Mrs. Christensen, Miss Rivard and many others, Hilltop High has always been the place to plan for the future.

Although the highly academic classes and skilled teachers played a big part in paving the way for students at Hilltop, inspiration can also be found in the many scholarships and academic awards given to seniors at the end of the year. In the history of Hilltop, many awards have been presented to proud graduating Lancers and this year has been no exception. Having carried on a very proud tradition, the Lancers have once again proved that Hilltop stands for excellence.

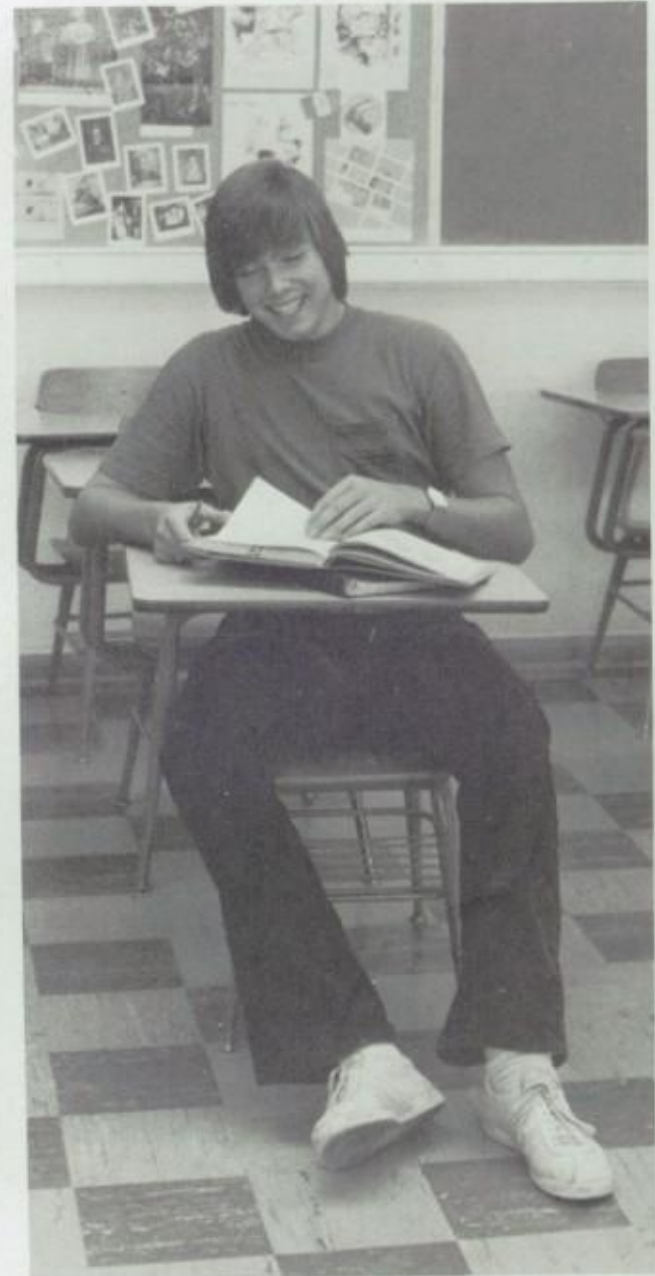

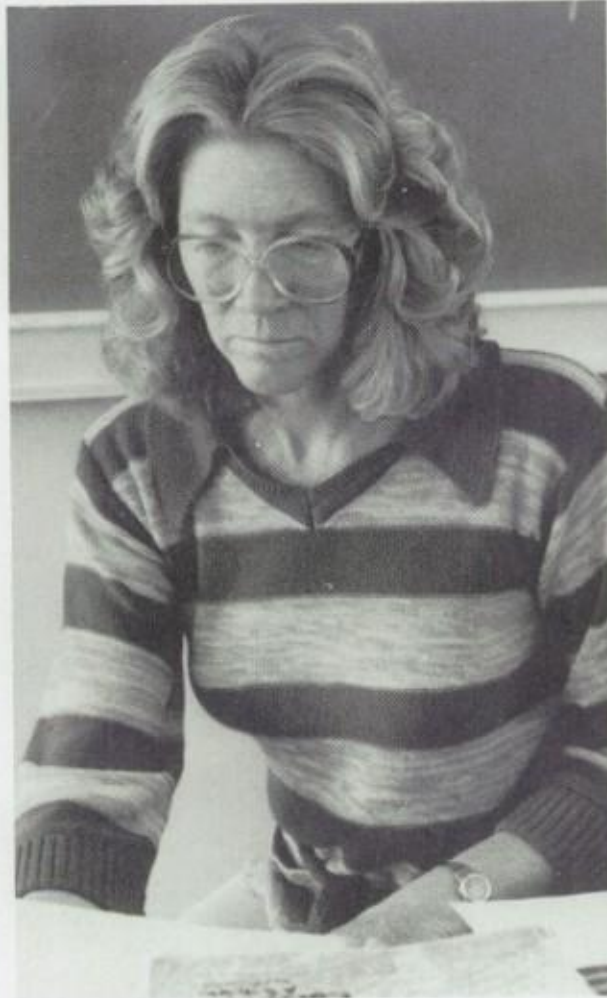

Clockwise from upper left: Matt forgets where he's at; "Are we changing seats again?"; "And this is a belt," explains Allison Smith; "This time I won't miss!"; "I think we're in for it now, Jacque!" exclaims Maripie; "It's been a hard days night!"

German Club Bursts on the Scene

While so many aspects of Hilltop's educational scene were changing, it was encouraging to know that a favorite club was returning. The German club has become a cultural institution on the Hill. The members experienced German culture by meeting to plan activities and more often just to learn about the German way of life. The clubs exchanged recipes, customs and various realms of German culture. Hilltop High has been richly blessed by the presence of the German club.

French Club is Active on Hilltop Stage

Under the direction of Madame Paulette Wilson, the French Club studied and experienced French culture in various different ways. They studied various French authors and poets, and even, French food. Among their other activities were a Christmas party, Art Fair participation, and their annual softball game against the ASB. At the end of the year, they held their annual French club banquet at a French cuisine. The French club, a piece of French culture spiced the atmosphere of Hilltop life.

From top to bottom: The 1981-82 French club; A French Club member busy at work; Madame Wilson is pleased with her students progress.

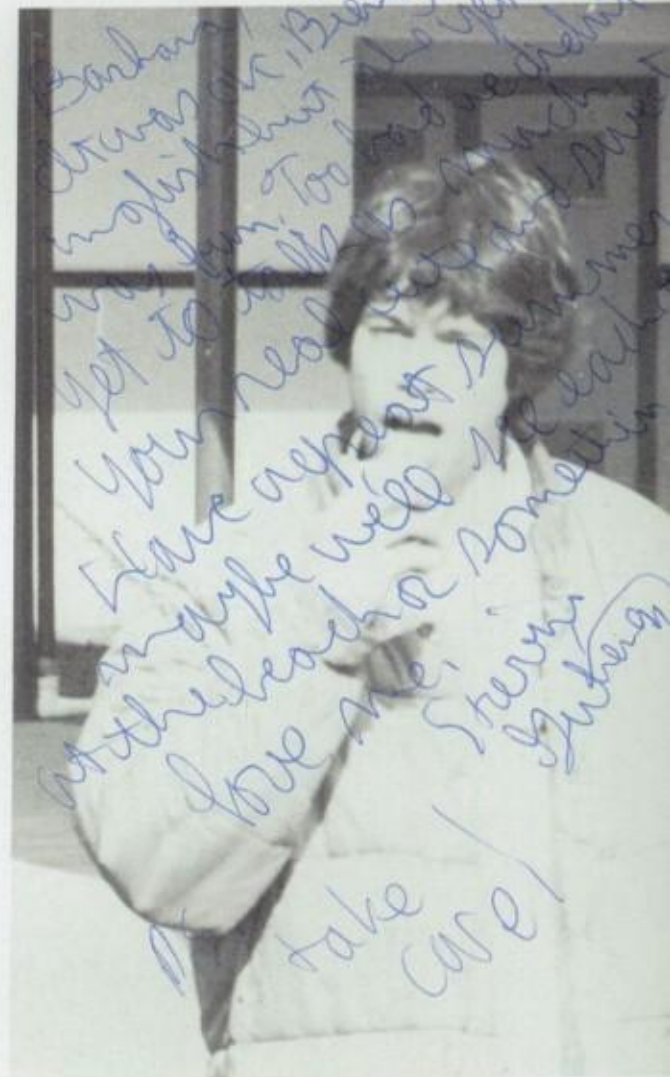

"Homework, homework, give me a break!" At one time or another every Lancer, had experienced this kind of emotional breakdown. Between hard classes, tough teachers, and long periods it seemed inevitable. In order to avoid this tension many Hilltop students joined one of many clubs, participated in many of the activities, and attended school dances.

The variety of clubs on campus made it easy for Hilltoppers to chose what they wanted. Although many of the clubs took much time, everyone felt it was worth it. Of course, there were many ASB sponsored dances, pep assemblies and activities which took place during the year. Each of these gave Lancers the opportunity to "go for the GUSTO!" Many of these made it a lot easier for Hilltop students to get through the rest of their day.

Without any of these, many Hilltoppers would have found it very difficult to cope with ordinary school life. All of the clubs made Lancerland life a little easier.

Clockwise from upper left: You ain't just whistlin' Dixie; David Ruiz checks his list of who he's giving candy canes to; "Don't get mad Michelle, get glad!"; Losing money in this machine isn't very funny; I bet you want to know where we're going, huh?; Melissa Molley spots something verrry interesting.

How Do You Spell Relief ?

Humanities: Life Through Literature

The Humanities Club began many years ago at Hilltop as an outgrowth of Mrs. Christensen's Literary Humanities class. While the club members were essentially the students enrolled in the class, many other Lancers joined the club.

As always the Humanities club was extremely busy. They held their annual luncheon at the beginning of the year. Members enjoyed many dishes, some unusual and others rather common; but all were excellently prepared and definitely delicious. In November and December, the Humanities club began preparing for the Art Fair. They gift wrapped boxes of various sizes and shapes, sewed together right and left-handed bookmarks, and put together plant-holders. In February, the Humanities club put on its annual book fair to raise money for the scholarship fund, which would be awarded to a Humanities class student at the end of the year.

The Humanities club spent many hours together over the school year, and by the end of the year felt like a family; a family joined to explore the aesthetics of an enlightened life.

Clockwise from top: 1981-82 Humanities club; Humanities club member is participating in Art Fair. Ken Clark puts on the finishing touches.

M.E.C.H.A. On the move

Being one of the newest clubs on campus, M.E.C.H.A. (Movimiento Estudiantil Chicano de Atzlan), accomplished quite a lot and built a name for itself. Their main goal was to provide a club at Hilltop High where Mexicans can feel at ease within their culture and language. M.E.C.H.A. itself is dedicated to inspiring Mexican students to seek the best they can attain in education. As well as being an academic club, it was also an enjoyable one. M.E.C.H.A. members participated in many conferences, went to Magic Mountain in April, and participated in the ever-popular Art Fair. M.E.C.H.A.'s members were major characters in Hilltop's Student Life activities.

Hilltop Senators Help Direct Students

In order to be a Senator, it was necessary to be responsible, compatible, and able to communicate with others. Some of the Senators' duties consisted of representing the opinions of fellow students at Senate meetings, to inform students of the issues discussed at the meetings, to elect Regents, and to figure out the budget for the following year.

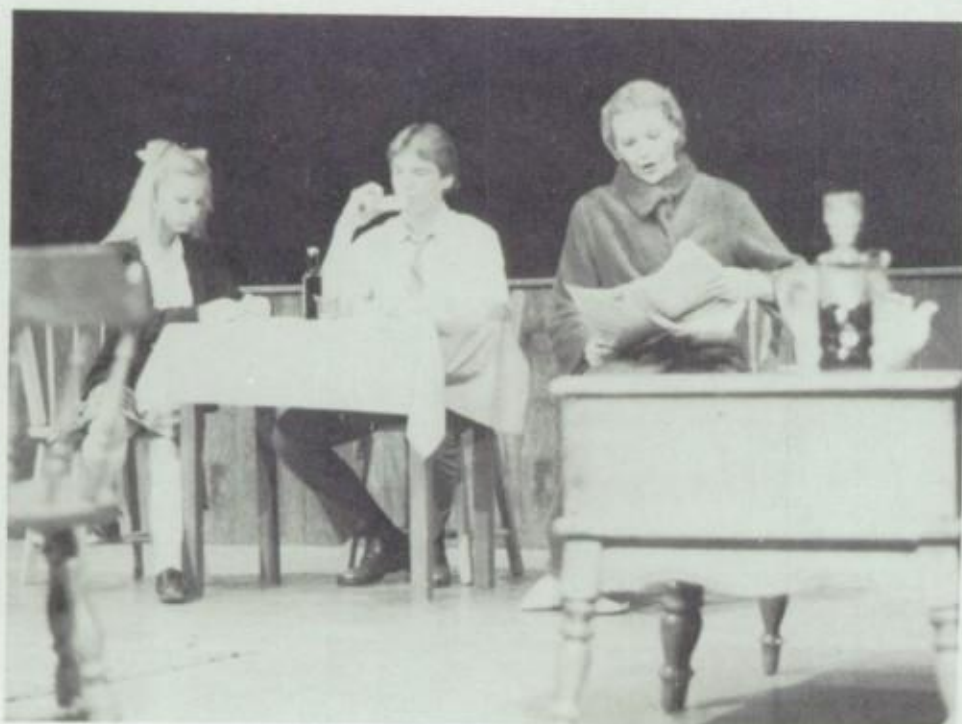

The 1982 Senate was very fortunate in that each student did an excellent job, and greatly improved Hilltop in many ways.

ART FAIR '81

"Following Events"

After a great deal of work, the Art Fair Committee announced the 1981 Art Fair. The clubs and organizations on campus, as well as several off-campus donors, sold various goods and services during the week of December 14-18. All proceeds were donated to the Valle Lindo Developmental Center for severely handicapped children.

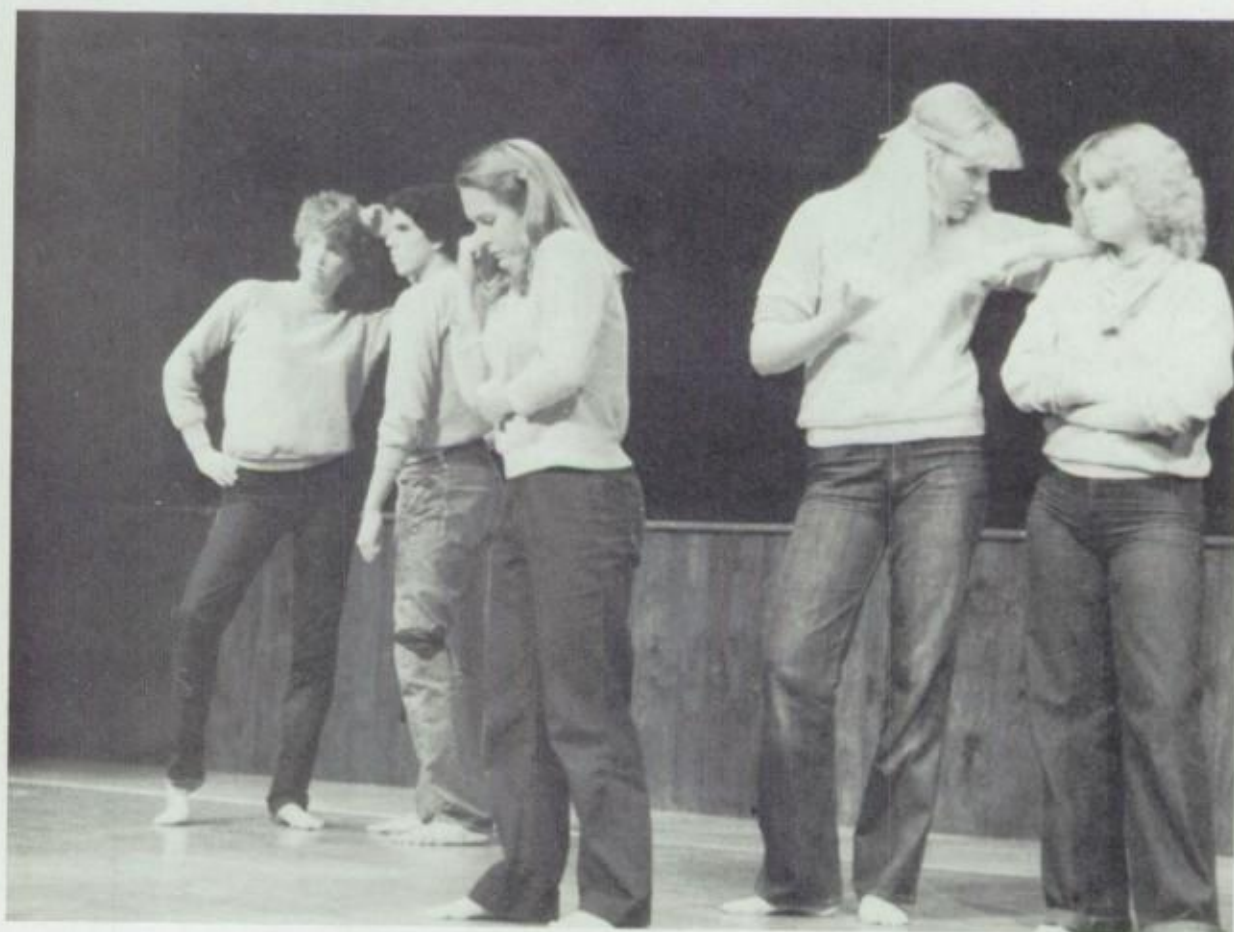

Art Fair began many years ago at Hilltop in remembrance of a student who died of a brain tumor in her senior year. Originally, Art Fair funded groups which promoted creativity in children, but in recent years, the contributions have leaned towards the handicapped, underprivileged, and delinquent children of the community. We hope you will join us in making the 1981 Art Fair a giant success.

Clockwise starting from upper right: Wendy Ketner enjoys her day at the Art Fair; Lisa Marroquin inspects the rose for bugs? "How dare you!"; Evening of

 Why don't we kill the poor! Yellow grass!
 I Am so sure!
 Anyway, you're cool, I guess, so

 Don S.

World Events Set the Stage

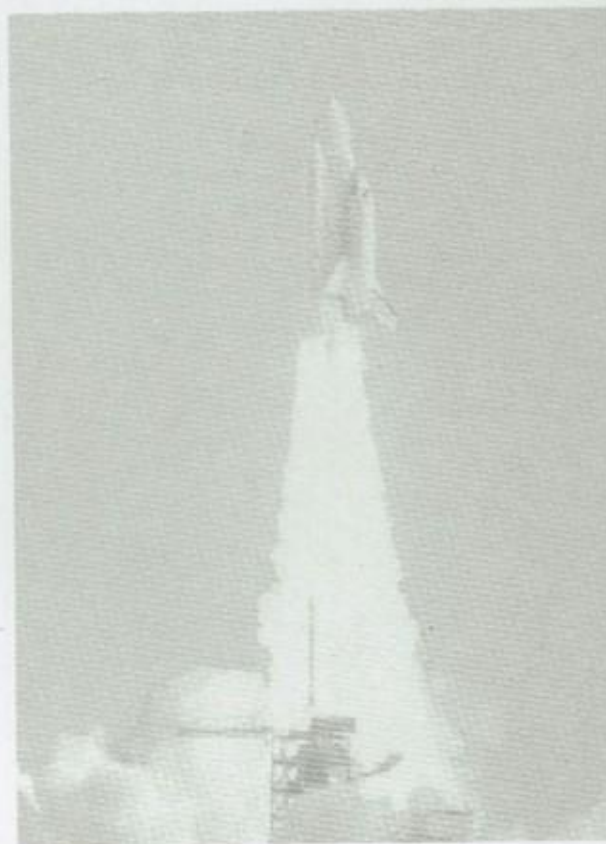

The events of the 1981-82 school year were instrumental in changing and shaping the views and opinions of many Lancers. Students became involved in the problems facing our nation and those around the world as political and economic problems became increasingly worse.

Many students were profoundly affected by the rash of assassination attempts made internationally. In March of 1981, John W. Hinckley shot President Ronald Reagan and several of his companions, including Press Secretary James Brady, who suffered a bullet wound to the head. In May, a Turkish terrorist attempted to kill Pope John Paul II. Fortunately, neither of these attempts produced any fatalities, but the world mourned when Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was assassinated October 6th during a military parade in the streets of Cairo.

In the later part of the year, there was wide concern for the safety of American officials as Libyan leader Colonel Muammar Khadafy, apparently angered over the downing of two Libyan fighter planes by the U.S. Navy in August 1981, reportedly sent hit squads after President Reagan, Vice-President George Bush, and Secretary of State Alexander Haig. These fears did not materialize as security for the top officials was tightened considerably.

The world was shocked when Polish Prime Minister Woyciech Jaruzelski imposed martial law December 13, 1981. Solidarity union leader Lech Walesa and thousands of others were immediately placed into detention camps while Western countries watched helplessly. President Reagan placed an embargo upon Poland and the Soviet Union, whom he claimed had backed the move, and urged other free countries to do the same. Thousands of Polish-Americans held demonstrations and placed lighted candles in their windows as a show of support for the Polish people. In Poland itself, there were scattered strikes as the Polish people balked at accepting the military regime and giving up the freedoms they had fought for without a struggle.

Central America was a region of constant upheaval, as the El Salvadoran government fought against what it called guerrilla warfare, and what the American government called communism. Nicaragua's Sandanista government seemed to be a part of the warfare in El Salvador, as did Cuba and the Soviet Union.

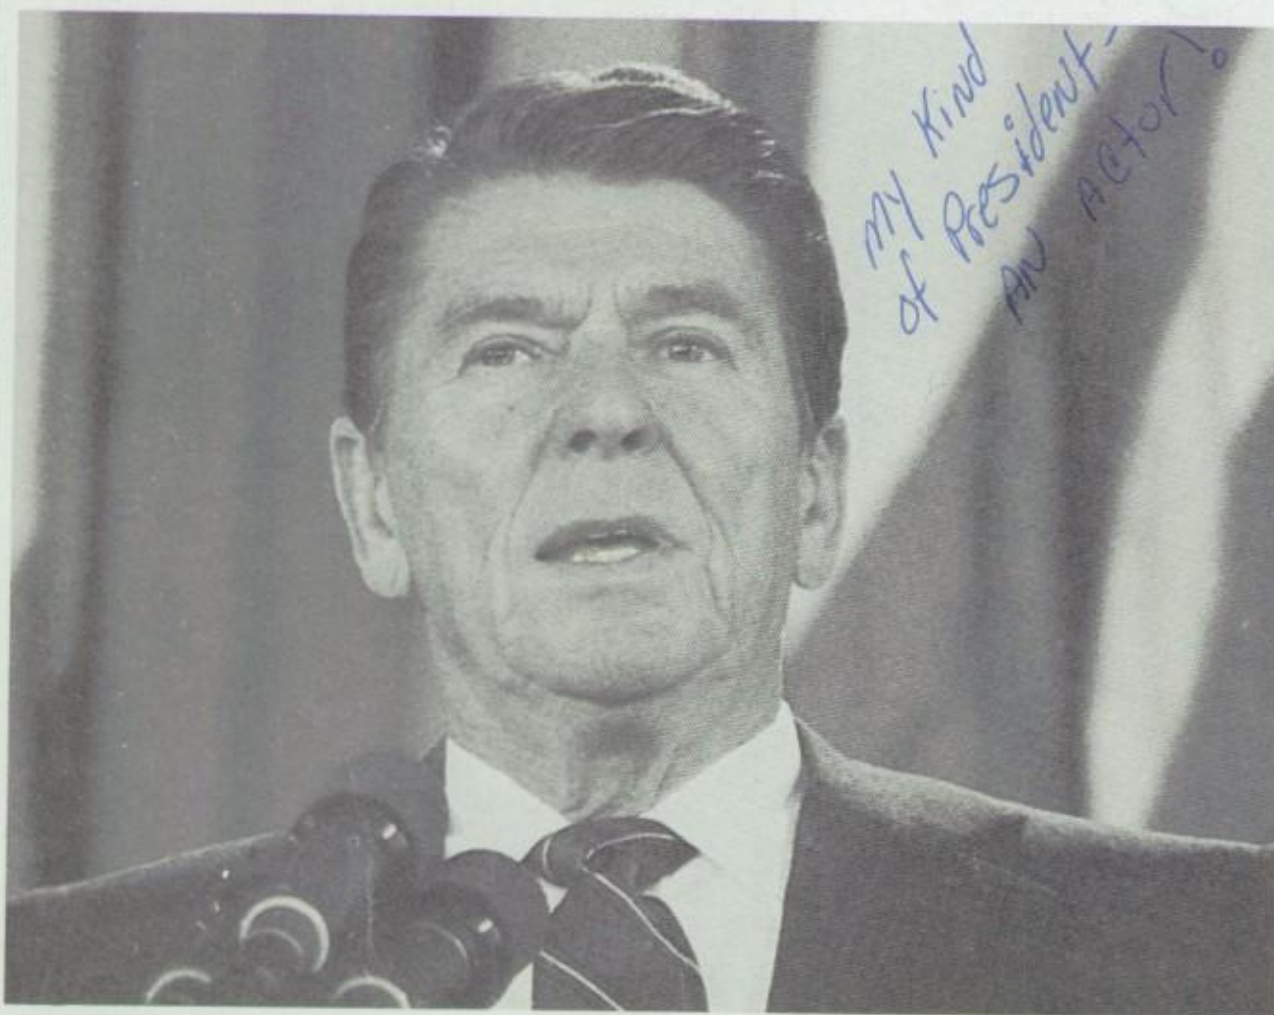

Another startling event occurred in Italy. NATO General James Dozier was kidnapped by the Red Brigades and held hostage 42 days. Through the persistence of the Italian police, Dozier was rescued from his prison and his kidnappers taken into custody. President Reagan hoped his return would show terrorists in other countries who might be considering the same type of action that such an action would be fruitless.

Americans had a great sense of pride when the space shuttle Columbia made history in October of 1981 by becoming the first vehicle ever to be sent into space twice. Although there were minor difficulties that caused the shuttle's flight to be shortened to three days, the second flight of the Columbia was an unqualified success. The re-usable shuttle was sent up for a third time March 22, 1982.

The economy fluctuated as "Reaganomics" took hold of the country. President Reagan increased defense spending and deland. The nose of the plane broke off and two passengers were later reported missing.

During the year several Hollywood stars died tragically: William Holden died in a freak accident in his home; Natalie Wood drowned off the coast of Catalina Island; comedian John Belushi, who came to prominence in "Saturday Night Live", died March 5 after an overdose of cocaine and heroin.

One high note in the events of 1982 was the end of the Atlanta murders with the conviction of Wayne Williams. Although the 23-year-old black man still maintains his innocence, another murder has not occurred since his arrest in 1981. Although his conviction seems to stand basically on circumstantial evidence, the jury was so sure that they brought back their verdict after only eight hours of deliberation.

Closer to home, San Diegans had plenty to cheer about when the San Diego Sockers won the indoor soccer world championship by defeating the Tampa Bay Rowdies 10-5.

Chula Vistans lived through one very frightening day in 1982 when a sniper's bullets held hostage the people in the Mountain View Mobile Home Park and the apartments adjacent to it. The man killed three people during his attack and injured a sheriff deputy who had arrived at the scene on its outset. The man was captured by sheriff deputies the same evening after several bombs of tear gas were set off in his trailer. He had to be taken to a hospital for emergency care after suffering a heart attack from the fumes. The argument which sparked the sniping seems to have begun over one of the victim's dogs, who barked too loudly.

The Sweetwater Union High School District faced another year of trouble between the district administrators and teachers. Teachers were not satisfied when offered a 0% pay raise, yet the district maintained that there was no money for any raise at all. For several tense weeks, it looked as if the teachers might strike at any moment, and, in fact, on Monday, March 1st, the district was prepared with substitute teachers and armed guards for every campus should the strike occur. It did not, however, and several days later the teachers voted for fact-finding as a means of mediation.

Whether local or world-wide, the events of the year influenced the lives of everyone on the Hilltop campus. Lancers looked optimistically to what the future would bring.

creased taxes for Americans, but the economy was sluggish. Interest rates were up and unemployment was a record nine million as Detroit experienced yet another slump in the market for American cars. However, inflation went down from double digits to hold around 8%. Americans looked optimistically to the future and hoped that the 1981-82 recession was only a mild one.

The male domination of the United States Supreme Court ended in 1981. Arizona judge Sandra Day O'Connor was unanimously confirmed by the Senate, thus giving the court the first female justice.

Tragedy struck Washington D.C. in January 1982 when Air Florida Flight 90 hit the Washington Street Bridge and plunged into the Potomac River as it was taking off from National Airport. Lenny Skutnik instantly became a hero when he jumped into the icy river to rescue one of the few survivors of the ill-fated flight. In Boston, an airplane slid off the end of an icy runway into the Boston Harbor as it was trying to Practice . . .

Striving for perfection was the main reason for the many hours of hard work and rehearsals that the cast of The 1982 Variety Show put into for their final performance.

It was during the summer of 1981 that the dreaming and creating of the Variety Show script first began. It was a difficult task to write a script that would catch the eye of everyone involved, but writers Dorrie Board and Lynn Lunt seemed to have done it quite easily.

Combining "Murder" and "Mystery" as their theme, "When There's A Will, There's a Way" came about. The plot was a simple but crafty one: J.W. Whoopie (King of the practical job industry) is murdered and his family tries not only to solve his murder, but also to get their hands on his money.

Keeping in mind the perfection that is needed, everyone involved didn't mind the long rehearsals and hard work.

Clockwise from upper left: Fred Haley and Diana Quandt get down to "Shout!"; Rehearsing "Innocent Age"; Performing the Whoopie will reading; Patty Kuffel shows her secretarial skills as "Sue"; The cast gets into character; Jenne Geno speaks her fluent Spanish; The "Drag-um-on-in" Club.

... Makes Perfect!

The 1982 Variety Show, "When There's A Will There's A Way" turned out to be a smash! Perfection is what they strived for and perfection is what they achieved. The plot was unique and the characters were well portrayed by an outstanding cast of seniors. The skit itself was full of humor with one surprise after another.

Other outstanding contributions to the Variety Show were the variety acts, song and dance and comedy spoofs were very well performed by many students from Hilltop High. Both Boys' and Girls' Chorus Line danced together in togas, with the Girls' chorus line in an added attraction dancing to "Private Eyes". Naturally, the Boys' Chorus Line, wearing mini dresses and dancing to "Lola" was a headliner. It was an evening of spectacular events and you had to be there to really appreciate it.

The 1982 Variety Show cast gave special "Thank You's" to the technical crew, set-designers, and especially appreciated the advisors for their full cooperation and kind understanding.

The entire cast also dedicated the Variety Show to the late "Saturday Night Live" cast member, John Belushi for the inspiration they felt he gave to them.

"When There's A Will, There's A Way."

Barbara,

It's been great being friends with you these past couple of years, and I hope we can stay good friends for a long time. Good luck in the future and take care of yourself. Go out and party and have a really great summer.

For seniors, the last year of high school is a great deal like the opening night of a play for actors and actresses. After years of auditions and rehearsals, from elementary school through the eleventh grade, seniors have been putting together their act for the grand opening. If practice makes perfect, then seniors should be perfection, after twelve years of hard work. The finale of the senior 'opening night' is graduation, a time of mixed feelings of both happiness and sadness. Above all, seniors know that their finale is leading to one thing, and one thing only: the rehearsal for the next play.

MEMORIES ARE FOREVER

Memories are very special moments that no one ever forgets. Remembering all the good & bad times we shared. Our special memories were: "Drive in Movies", "Partys", "The Football Games", "Cruising", "Pizza Hut", "Accident in VAN", and the times we spent together. But most of all we'll always be the best of friends through out the years.

To fly as fast as thought, you must begin by knowing that you have arrived.

I.L.S.

Karen (Badger),

We have many special memories that I will always remember - the Halloween party with the saloon girl and the bumble bee, the coffin, who was in the closet? the storage room, have a "ripped" wedding gown... Disneyland, or how about running down the street in dresses - who us? How about T.P.ing Mike Haynals and getting chased by Sam Marti - the mad mopedder! We have alot of excellent times ahead too. There is nothing that can break the bond of our friendship.

I'll always cherish it, you're the best friend anyone could have - I Love you!

Cindy (monkey)

Your friendship is the most important thing to me. I will always cherish your friendship, and of course, I'll never forget all the memories. Campfires at the beach (Zoom, Schwartz, Profigliano) we sing a lovely duet under sombreros. Black Angus - on Girl's League night. The cherry on the straw, German salami and French bread on the bus stop. You in the shopping cart and the guys in the car, Old Town photos, Sleeping on a wet floor at Lisa's. We will encounter many more memories in the future. No matter what happens around us, we are united in friendship for ever. You're the best!!

"Thank You For Being A Friend" I Love You! Karen

From Sophomore to Junior to Senior (Hurray!)
 Now I'll get my diploma. ("OH, HAPPY DAY!").
 I'm finished with high school, and lived through it, too.
 This is my farewell, my good-bye to you.

Good-bye to lockers, Schoolbooks and hall passes.
 I thank all my teachers (I "dug" your classes.)
 Good luck to my friends, I bid you adieu.
 May the good Lord take a liking to you.

High School is over, it's been great that's quite true
 To be one of the Lancers of 1982.
 I've run out of rhyme, and now I must go so I'll tell you this poem's by Cheri Lynn Solso.

MEMORIES:

Dear Tim,
 I Love you! Thanks
 for being my best friend and for being there when I need you. You give me strength to go on when mine is failing. I don't know how I would have lived through the "Point Blank" of this year if had not been there by my side giving me the courage to go on. You are so special to me and I thank GOD that he gave me you to be my FRIEND.

Dear Raylene,
 I love you and I want to keep you
 within the reaches of my arms and heart.
 You are my bestest
 friend. I hate to use the word "friend" because it is so overused. But a friend is someone to talk to when the best thing in my life happens; someone to give me counseling when I need it; and also someone that I want to tell all of my secrets to. As you probably know the only person in my life to fit this role is
 you. I hope you always will. That is how much you mean to me.

Love eternally,
Jim

Well, it's sure had been a great 13 years, hasn't it? It doesn't seem like that long. I guess time really does fly when you're having fun. There have been some bad times, though, I have to admit. Still, it seems like whenever things look really dark for our friendship, we manage to repair the damage. Maybe that's what friendship is all about. But really, I mean, like you, y'know, it's unbelievably cosmic how much we've been through together. Remember: The Browning Crisis--Sex on-the ceiling...those weird shoes of Mrs. Browning's...Parliamentary Procedure? (My God, is it only two years ago?) And heaven forbid I did that we should forget the future has what the future has. I don't know who was the name of the play? Of course, that was the year we met Deb. Remember, at 15 guys??? To all our summer-time buddies —

A lot of special people and special feelings made this summer the most memorable of our lives. We experienced time together and during that time, we developed a friendship so unique that the bond will never be broken. Not even the misunderstandings or the head-trips can separate us. Forever friends. Remember the park at night when we got bored and the many picnics at Presidio. Those were rad. Frisbee action all the way!! Lake Coronado and long drives to La Jolla. The Lowenbräu days. Even though all of us weren't together all the time, we managed to become good friends. Towards the end of the summer, the emotions got heavy and things between us didn't seem so smooth. Some of us became closer as others grew apart. That was a heartbreaking situation, but in a way it helped because it made us realize what friendship is deep inside our hearts. Some friendships were deeply scarred, but what we've shared can never be lived down no matter how many years go by. The fun and the fights will always be remembered. Now that most of us are seniors and we'll be graduating, the time will come to say so-long — not good-bye, but see ya later. We will always treasure the times we spent together and look forward to the times in the future. Thanks for the memories. Let's keep in touch and forever keep the fire.

In their second year of high school, juniors found that the main thing they were striving for was to be the top of the high school totem pole: seniors. Sometimes, it seemed almost as if they were running through the dress rehearsal for that final year. In fact, most hailed the junior year as the hardest in high school, and juniors lamented interminably the reading of the SCARLET LETTER and the many hours studying history dates, instead of the dates most deemed much more important. But juniors came to realize that all their hard work was simply the final step towards their final year and graduation.

As sophomores struggled through their first year of high school, many felt themselves to be the object of much scrutiny by their teachers and peers. It was almost as if they had been put on stage under a spotlight to audition for a part in a play. They read the lines and followed the motions, hoping to survive their year in a totally new environment. High school, they immediately discovered, is entirely different from junior high school in both atmosphere and curriculum, and surviving this difference seemed almost impossible at times. But sophomores learned that through perseverance, dedication and a lot of knuckle-grinding, passing through the audition was only a necessary part of the climb to opening night.

As in past years, sports have been an integral element of Lancer pride and spirit. They have helped to create a sense of unity and dignity which are reflected by the attitudes of the student body and faculty.

However, this unity would not be possible without the students and coaches who devoted their time and energy to the performance of these sports. Without performers, a play is only words, and without athletes, sports would be only rules in a book. At Hilltop, the wide variety of sports activities allowed many people to participate and gain a sense of accomplishment. Sports have become a very important part of life of the Hill, and will continue to be in years to come.

Performers

Keeping on Top of Things

Jamie McGinnis

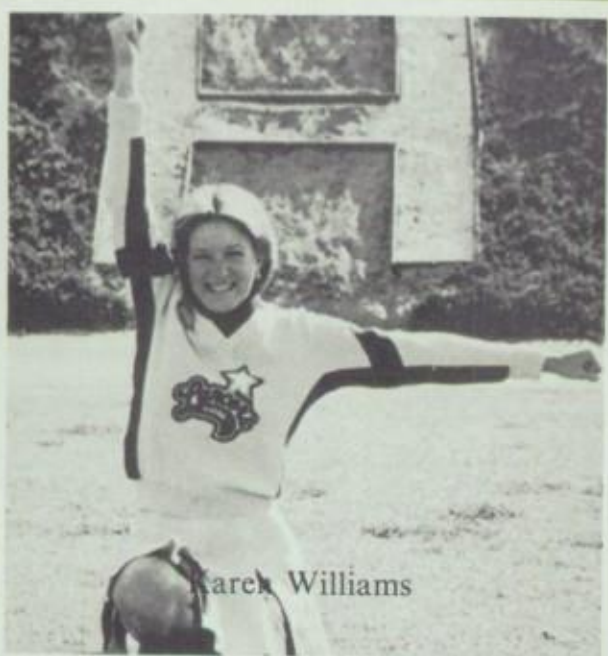

An essential part of every major Varsity sport is the spirit and backing given to them by the students for whom they play. Without this support many games would be lifeless and dull. But this is only half the story; the students must have leaders and that was where the cheerleaders came in. In the interest of school spirit, these girls sacrificed many summer and after school hours to learn and perfect their cheers. During the summer they attended the National Cheerleading Association camp where they received three superiors, one excellent, and the spirit stick, for demonstrating their outstanding ability. The contribution of the cheerleaders to the sports and to the status of student morale during the 1981-82 school year was priceless and greatly appreciated.

Getting the Pieces Together

This year's Jr. Varsity cheerleading squad did an excellent job of shouting out cheers of encouragement to the young athletes of Hilltop High. Ms. Sharon Sybert, their advisor, was pleased with the performance of the girls and thought they did a good job, despite the fact that none of them had been on a cheerleading squad before. Their spirit and dedication carried them through the difficult beginnings to a polished look of perfection by the end of the year.

Running in the Line of Performance

The 1981 Boys' Varsity Cross Country team had an excellent season this year. A splendid amount of effort was put forth by all the team members. Led by sophomore runner A.J. Zampardo, the team ended the season with a 4-0 record in the Mesa League. In a very close meet, the harriers shut out a traditionally strong Bonita Vista team. The Boys' Cross-Country team enjoyed their best season ever and developed to a full extent the many talented runners on the team.

Clockwise: Boys Varsity Cross-Country; Speech? Speech?; Brian proves it's not easy; Cross-Country uses teamwork to win; A.J. runs with character.

Girls Cross Country Co-Champs

Hilltop has always had a strong cross country team but this year the team was sensational. Being guided by Coach Cummings was an asset, but with talents such as Jill Armer and Patty Kuffel, victories came easier. Throughout the season, the girls ran strong races, many of them close, other times leaving their opponents far behind. They finished with a record of 3-1 in the Mesa League, which put them in a three-way tie for first place. While the team was led by outstanding seniors, this year's junior and sophomore runners were tremendous and planned on keeping the winning tradition in motion.

1981 J.V. Harriers

The J.V. Cross Country team put in much team work and demonstrated their Hilltop spirit. Through hard work, Hilltop had a great season. The J.V. Harriers often go unnoticed, but this year these runners stood out in the crowd. Such runners as Joey Koski, Nick Joseph and Robert Edwards led the team to victory. Hilltop's runners are looking forward to an even better record and more team spirit next year, although it is very difficult to improve on an already good thing. The J.V. team was coached by Mr. Ian Cumming, and, as in previous years, he provided excellent guidance for Hilltop's harriers. The J.V. Cross Country team had a productive season in 1981 and hopes to do even better next year.

The 1981-82 Lancer football team has had one of its best years ever. Despite the regulations of the CIF Commissioners, and the change from 2A to 3A Division, the Lancers prevailed.

This year they worked as one to achieve their goal, and working with this goal in mind they made it to the play-offs. They fought hard giving the game all they had and finished the season with a rank of second in Mesa League, as the 3A division of the old Metro League has been named. Under the leadership of head coach Stan Can-

This year was Hilltop's fifth consecutive year in the county's top ten football teams. This year Hilltop's mighty football team has set the third best football season record in the history of Hilltop High School. A record which is hard to beat . . . and a team that is hard to beat: Who else could it be but the Awesome Hilltop Lancer Football Team.

A Preview of Coming Attractions

While the J.V. football team met up with hard times this year, and finished with only a 2-6 overall record, their hard work was not without merit. The purpose of junior varsity teams is to teach young athletes the rules of the game and various techniques. The players also experienced the agony of defeat, and learned how to take it gracefully, as all athletes must. By the end of the season, the team had improved tremendously in all areas of the game and were prepared to take on any team in 1982-83.

Hilltop Bounces High

The Hilltop High Girl's Varsity Tennis team was one of the strongest teams Hilltop had ever seen. Both singles and doubles dominated the courts all season. The team worked on conditioning and devoted plenty of time to workouts and practices. All of this hard work paid off and Hilltop found victory after victory. The girls were coached by Mr. Fred Naegeli, who was pleased by their dedication and perseverance. Together with number one singles Cindy Grant and number one doubles Linda Milburn and Jody Sawasaki, the team went on to a winning season.

Volleying For Victory

The 1981 Varsity Volleyball team considered themselves to be very lucky this year when their coach, Mrs. Peggy Ormsby, decided to continue at Hilltop until the end of the fall season. The team's enthusiasm was high when the year began as a result of this, and they enjoyed an excellent season. They finished with a record of 6-2 in the newly established Mesa League, losing only to Bonita Vista. With only three returning lettermen, Joni and Susie Snow, and Tammy Larsen, this record was incredible. Although they lost their first round C.I.F. play-off to Valhalla, they exhibited a great deal of talent throughout the game. Although next year the returning players will have to break in a new coach, they hope to have another red-letter season in Mesa League.

Boob,

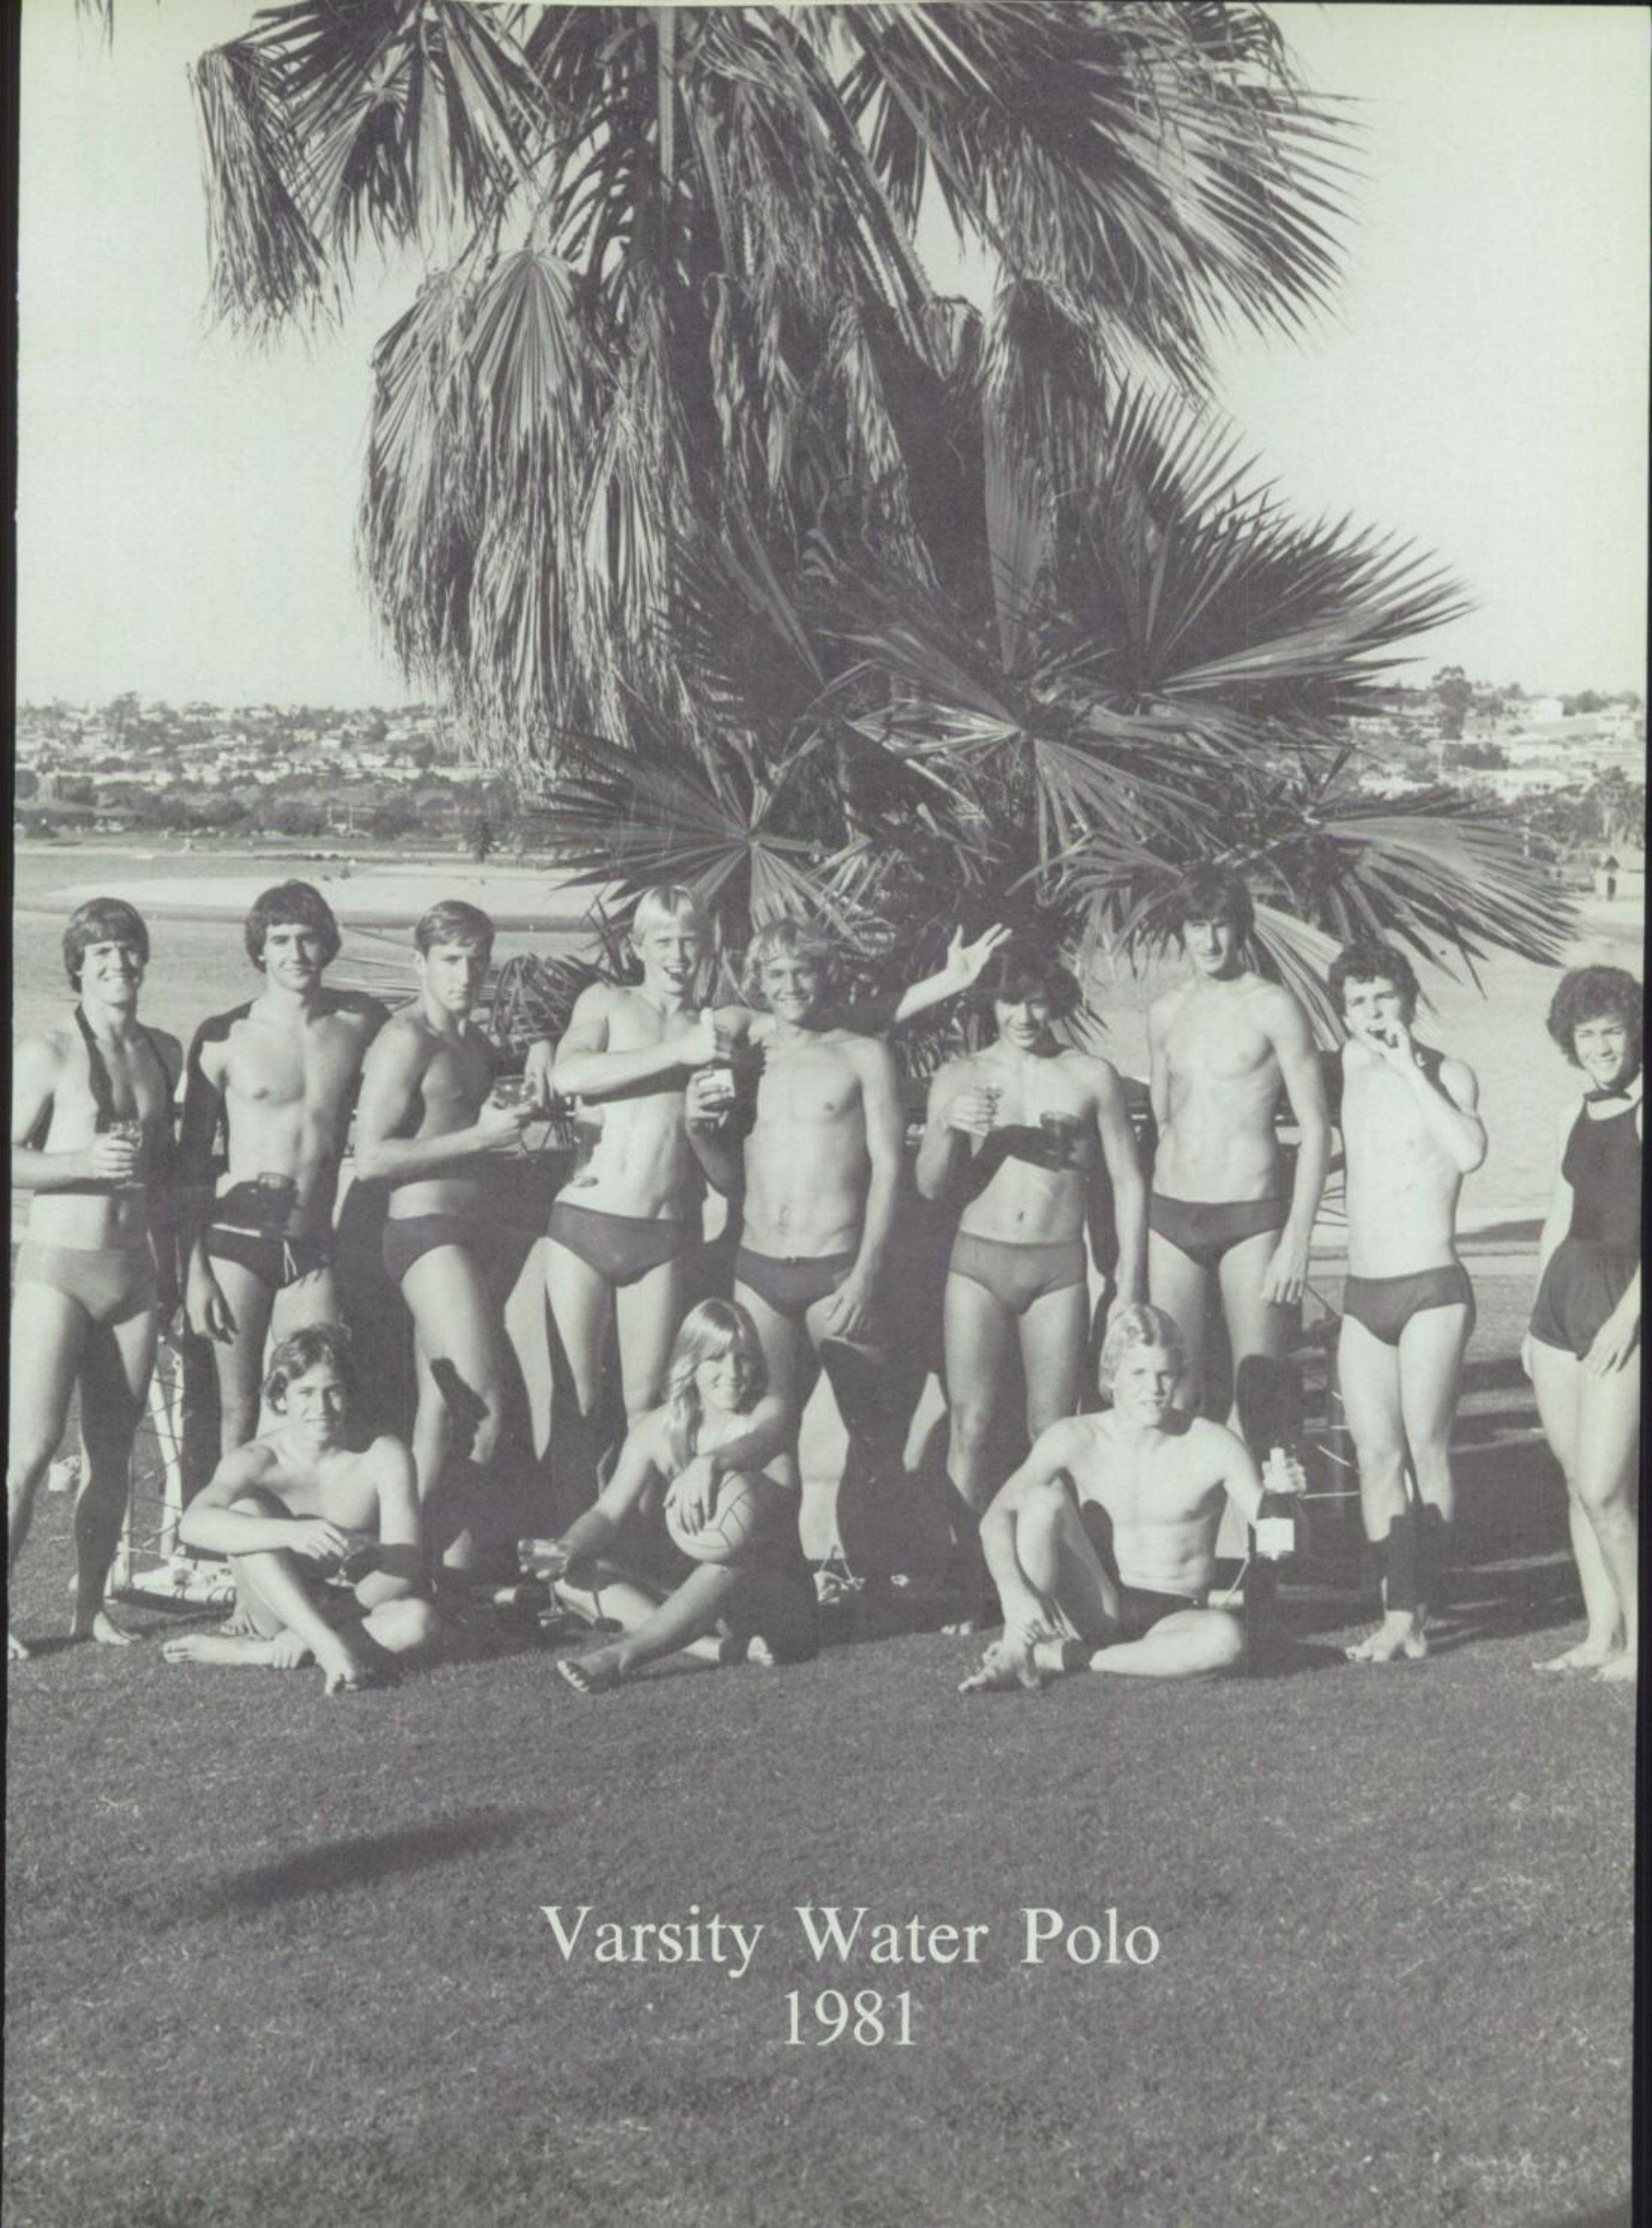

Top Rated

This year's J.V. Volleyball team were more than just athletes on a stage; they were the stars of the court. Their fine performance gave them a record of 7-1 in the Mesa League and an overall record of only 3 losses. Under the fine direction of Coach Nancy Accerio, the team went onto be Co-champs with Bonita Vista. Considering Bonita's strength in volleyball, this was enough to bring the house down.

Team standouts were Silvia Salido — Coaches Award, Sally Rosario — most inspirational, Holly Gillet — most improved, and Janet Garret — most valuable. With a great deal of talent and an awful lot of enthusiasm the team excelled throughout the season and enjoyed much praise.

With only three returning Varsity players, a new goalie and new coaches to break in, the 1981 Varsity Water Polo team members were struggling against incredible odds. But Hilltop's water polo players have always been tougher than their Speedos imply, and in spite of two disappointing losses to Coronado, the team prevailed, finishing the seasons with an overall record of 17-7, and a league record of 6-2. Pretty good for guys who spent summer league wondering who was going to coach them. Although Coach Greg Ormsby was a difficult act to follow, Dan Eby and Jill Murray did a fine job, and even managed to make a fine goalie out of Jokum Hansen, who had previously played full tank. The team lost by one point to Crawford in the second round of C.I.F. play-offs, but considering Hilltop's seventh place rank and Crawford's second place, the game was very closely matched. One word described the Lancers' playing ability and team spirit. That word was "awesome."

J.V. H₂O Keeps the Program Afloat

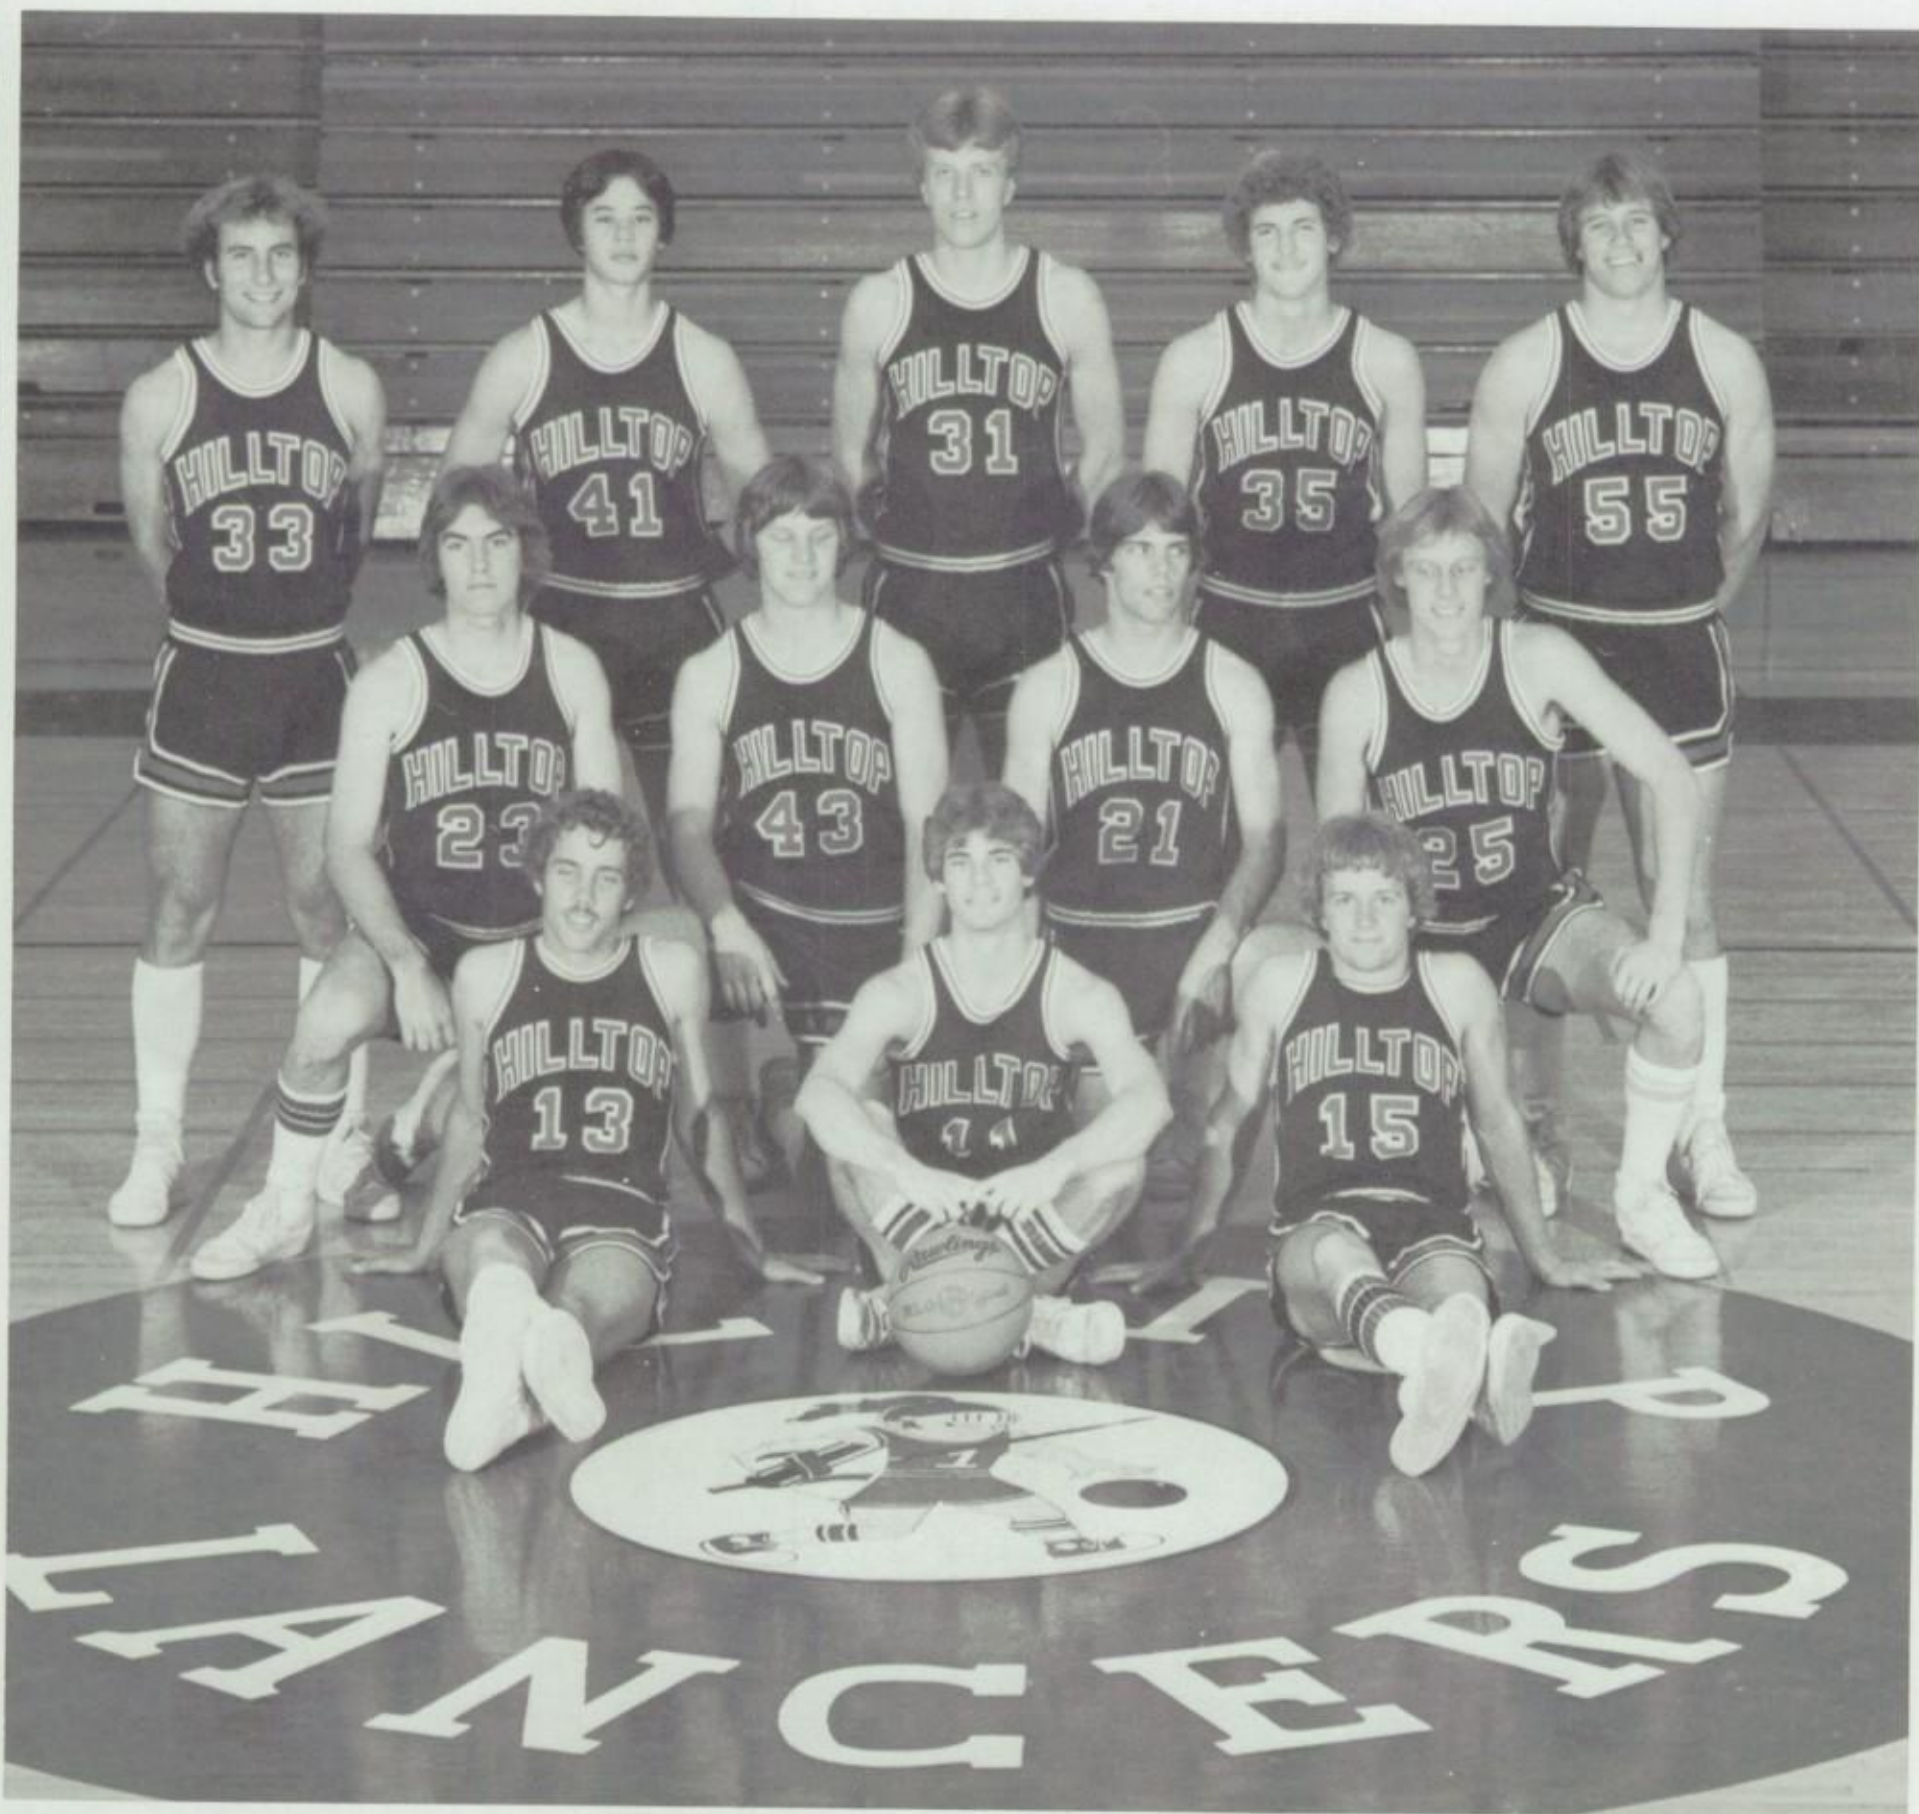

The J.V. Water Polo team was tremendous this year. They enjoyed an excellent season and finished 5-0 in the Mesa League. For swimmers who didn't seem to know which end of the pool to swim to at the beginning of the year, this finish was truly remarkable. Part of this success was due to the incredible coaching job of Pat Higgen-son, and the help of Dan E and Jill Murray, the Varsity coaches. Another factor was the fine play of the incoming sophomores in particular Captains Elker De Mello and Nick Palumbo, and goalie Scott Learned. Their intensity spurred the other players on to excellence. Because of their fine play, next year is seen as another terrific season for both Varsity and J.V. Water Polo.

The Mean Green Dunking Machine

This year's Lancer Varsity Basketball team was astounding in its ability to gain a winning reputation. They started their pre-season with a 11-2 record in tournament games. The Lancers second pre-season game was against Mt. Miguel and not only did the Lancers win an amazing victory, but they began a seven game winning streak. Their winning streak ended when they opposed Helix High. The outcome of the game was 41-56, but after this devastating loss, the Lancers got back on their feet again and won an impressive victory over Valhalla High School. They finished the second quarter of the game with a promising score of 37-13 and wrapped it up with a score of 53-36. After this victory the Lancers started another winning streak of 7 straight games.

Under the leadership of Coach Chapman, the Lancer Basketball Team was well on its way to becoming a winning team. Coach Chapman described his team by saying, "We have no star players; my team works as one toward their victory." Throughout their season, the Lancers lived up to their coach's fine praise. With a great deal of team work and camaraderie, the team finished off an excellent season in February.

Lancers Get Their Kicks

"Aggressive" was one word to describe this year's soccer team. As the season progressed this young team proceeded to become more disciplined and skilled in their positions and game plan.

The players worked as a team which helped them unite. Players that made this possible were senior standouts, Brad Curtis, Joe Zillner, Jim Goulding, and Art Mosqueda. Junior standouts were Russ Shubert, Victor Silva and Hector Martinez. Sophomore standouts were Joey Trevisani and John Swallow.

This year's soccer success was due to many contributions, such as the time and effort put forth by the soccer coaches headed by Coach Hombs. Again Hilltop was aggressive and powerful, both on the field and off.

Clockwise from upper left: Brad Curtis returning the ball; Art Mosqueda showing his talent; Joe Souza dribbles down field; 1982 Soccer Team; Joey Trevisani making his move; Jim Goulding using his head.

In this Scene?

Lancers!

After rounding the bases for the last time, the 1982 Varsity Softball team finished the season with a great record. After a disappointing loss to Sweetwater, the team came back to end the season on top.

Coach Frank Thurman guided the team through their good and bad times, helping them to their victories. The strong pitching of Stacy Freeman, and awesome fielding of Cindy Stuart, Bette Jo Allen, Amy Rowden, and Vicki Wolniewicz made this year's softball team one of the many strong ballclubs that Hilltop has produced.

Next year the Lancers can look forward to having a very strong team. Only losing one senior, the team should have a great season next year due to much experience.

A Side Show of Talent

The title "A Side Show of Talent" should only be taken lightly when referring to the 1982 J.V. softball team.

Long and tedious practices paid off and brought about a winning record for the year.

Coach Accerio has been Hilltop's J.V. Softball coach for three years. During that time she has encouraged many young girls to aspire toward better softball fundamentals, making possible varsity positions.

Talent and effort was the biggest factor in making the team come out on top.

The Hilltop Varsity Wrestling Team had another outstanding winning season this year. Under the leadership of Coach Art Stone the mighty Lancer wrestlers established themselves as the finest wrestlers in the Mesa League. The 1982 team gave real meaning to the words; "Hilltop Wrestlers are number one."

The team had six returning varsity lettermen this year: Richard Reynolds, Ari Miller, Gary Vasquez, Brian Wagner, Roger Cloutier, and Eddie Williams who all contributed to outstanding performances, as did the rest of the team.

Most of Hilltop's wrestlers went undefeated this year thanks to their coach and the unbeatable united power of their team as a whole.

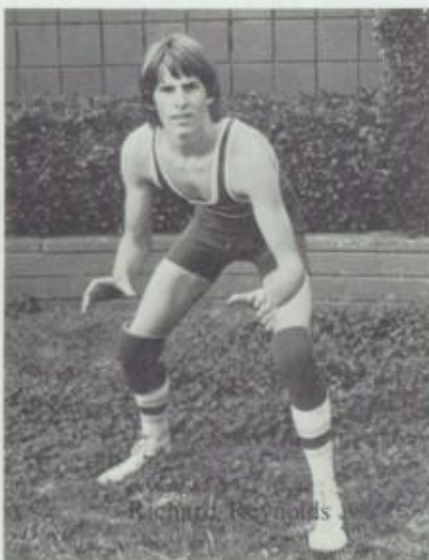

With an amazing combination of determination and power the Hilltop Wrestlers worked their way to an important goal: the Mesa League banner.

Winning Metro was one goal that this year's J.V. Wrestling team fulfilled. They put in hard and long hours of practice to gain their title as Metro Champs. Through the guidance of their coach Bill Virchis, Hilltop wrestled with power and aggressiveness.

With this skill, Hilltop can look forward to having a strong team in the future.

With a new winning spirit, the 1982 Varsity Baseball team worked hard to become a team with strength, but the Lancers didn't stop there. Coach Baumgarten had only "positive feelings" about his team. The most important qualities an individual player can possess, in addition to the necessary physical skills, are an unselfish, sacrificing team attitude. Add up sixteen players and you'll get Hilltop's Varsity Baseball team.

The J.V. Baseball players spent a great deal of the spring season in exhausting workouts and spent many afternoons practicing double plays and improving fielding skills. As usual, competition in the league was tough, but nevertheless, the J.V. Baseball team poured all its effort into each game. Determination made up for their lack of experience, and the hard work they put in during the season provided the experience they would need in future years. The team did its best every time, and, although there were some disappointments, the team never gave up until the last out.

A Bouncing Success

Following Hilltop's tradition, this year's Girls Varsity Basketball was again equipped with winning factors; A good coach and a good squad. Coached by Nancy Acerrio, the team again raced down the court to score points and gain wins. With team members such as Cindy Stuart, Mary Welty and Debbie Wolfe, the team overflowed with talent, spirit and aggressiveness. The pride felt by all Lancers was mirrored in the enthusiastic performance of the Girls' Varsity Basketball Team.

J.V. Vitality

The 1982 J.V. Basketball team was a team full of vitality. With a new group of girls, and a new coach, the team pulled through their season with a lot of skill and hope. Coach Richard Paff helped lead the team to many victories and gave the girls a chance to add experience to their basketball skills. The team outshined its opponents in both skill and spirit, while preparing for their varsity future.

Of all the teams on campus, one of the most successful and, paradoxically, one of the least recognized, is the Varsity Golf team. In past years, the team has won many consecutive Metro League titles, and has seen many outstanding individual performances. This year, the golfers hoped to continue their winning streak, and to capture the first Mesa league golfing title. With the expert coaching of veteran Ken Anderson, the team combined both experienced and inexperienced players to create a strong force among Mesa League golfers.

Premier Performance

Spring 1982 was another 1st for Hilltop Athletics. The Girls' Soccer team made its debut with a roster of 24 very spirited young ladies. These girls survived fund raising to buy new uniforms, a week of conditioning that would have driven off athletes with less desire, and a scrimmage with number one ranked Torrey Pines that could have demoralized any group. The team came through with only one goal in mind, to have a winning season and maintain Lancer pride.

The winning started and history was made on Saturday, March 13th. Sylvia Carvajal scored the 1st goal for girls soccer at Hilltop. This was joined by four other goals to beat Montgomery High and record their first win and their first shutout. As it turned out it was only the beginning of their winning ways.

On a team this young every member was important but the standouts were seniors Lourdes Alberdi, Jenne Geno; juniors Melina Ambriz, Sylvia Carvajal, Debbi Olszewski, and Carol Radigan, and sophomore Becky Barajas, Sharon Davies, Sally Rosario, and Audrey Silbernagel.

Head Coach, John Scott summed up the season with the statement, "This was a young team with a lot more heart than experience. The girls made their mark in the Mesa League and showed the CIF that they would be a team to deal with in the years to come, I was proud of them and glad to be a part of it all."

Swimmers and Divers Plunge to Victory

The 1982 Varsity Swimming and Diving Teams began their season at the end of February against incredible odds. Greg Ormsby, the coach of five previous years, moved to Colorado at the end of the 1980-81 school year, leaving a void that was difficult to fill. After one false start with a coach who quit only a week before the beginning of the season, Hilltop hired Barbara Blank as the Swimming and Diving Coach. With a good deal of competitive swimming and diving in her background, as well as some coaching experience, she was a good choice. Another difficulty faced by team members was the loss of over half its varsity members to graduation. Needless to say, achieving the high quality of the previous season was quite difficult.

In spite of the difficulties involved in creating a good swim team and diving squad out of so few experienced athletes, the team pulled together to upgrade the performances of every individual. Meets against other South Bay teams began in March, and ended in May, leading to the CIF championship. Hilltop High School's Varsity Swimming and Diving teams figured among the teams in the South Bay as one of the best.

Starting Block

The 1981-82 JV Swim Team started out their season with a lot of hard work and dedication. Every weekday afternoon these people, along with the varsity swimmers, got out and practiced for two hours under conditions that might have daunted less dedicated athletes. Under the leadership of Barbara Blank, the J.V. Swim Team defended its championship title with high spirits. Once again the team held up their winning reputation and made this season one to remember. Because of the pride and determination of the team Hilltop had one of its strongest seasons ever.

Stroking to Success

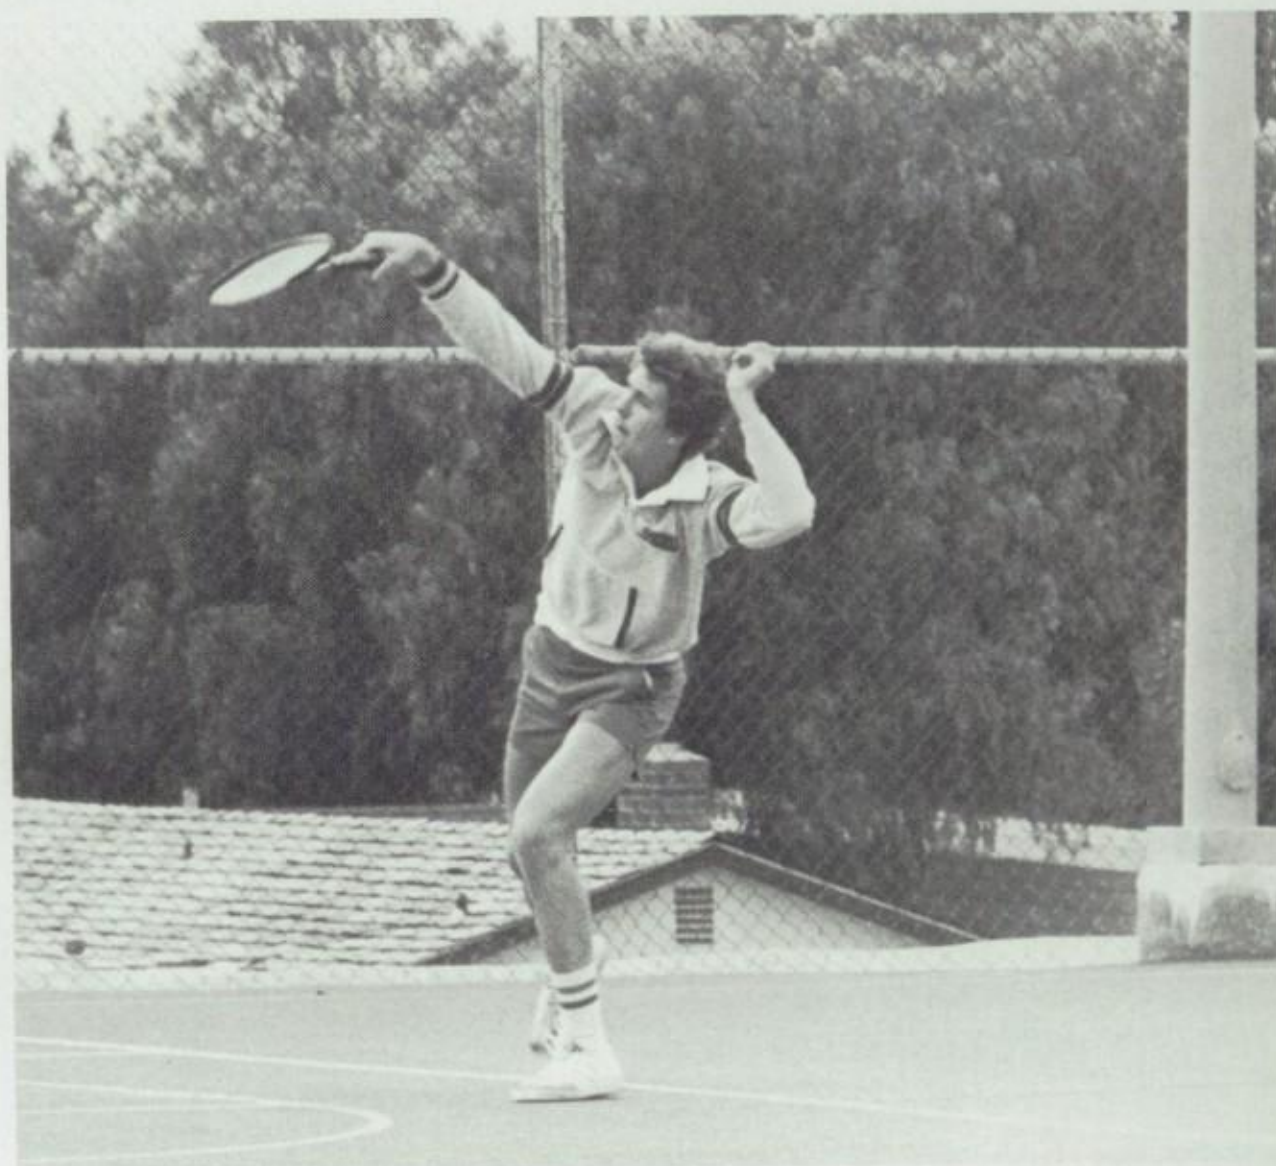

Hilltop has always been known for its strong boys tennis team. This year there was no difference. Boys tennis again prevailed and dominated the league. With long and hard workouts given by Coach Fred Naegeli. Hilltop strived for perfection in stroking and serving the ball. During several matches, the Lancers either held on to their leads or came from behind to overpower their opponents. Naturally, the boys were against some tough competition but managed to hold their own. The Hilltop tradition was continued in the Hilltop Boys tennis team again.

Varsity Track Stars Triumph

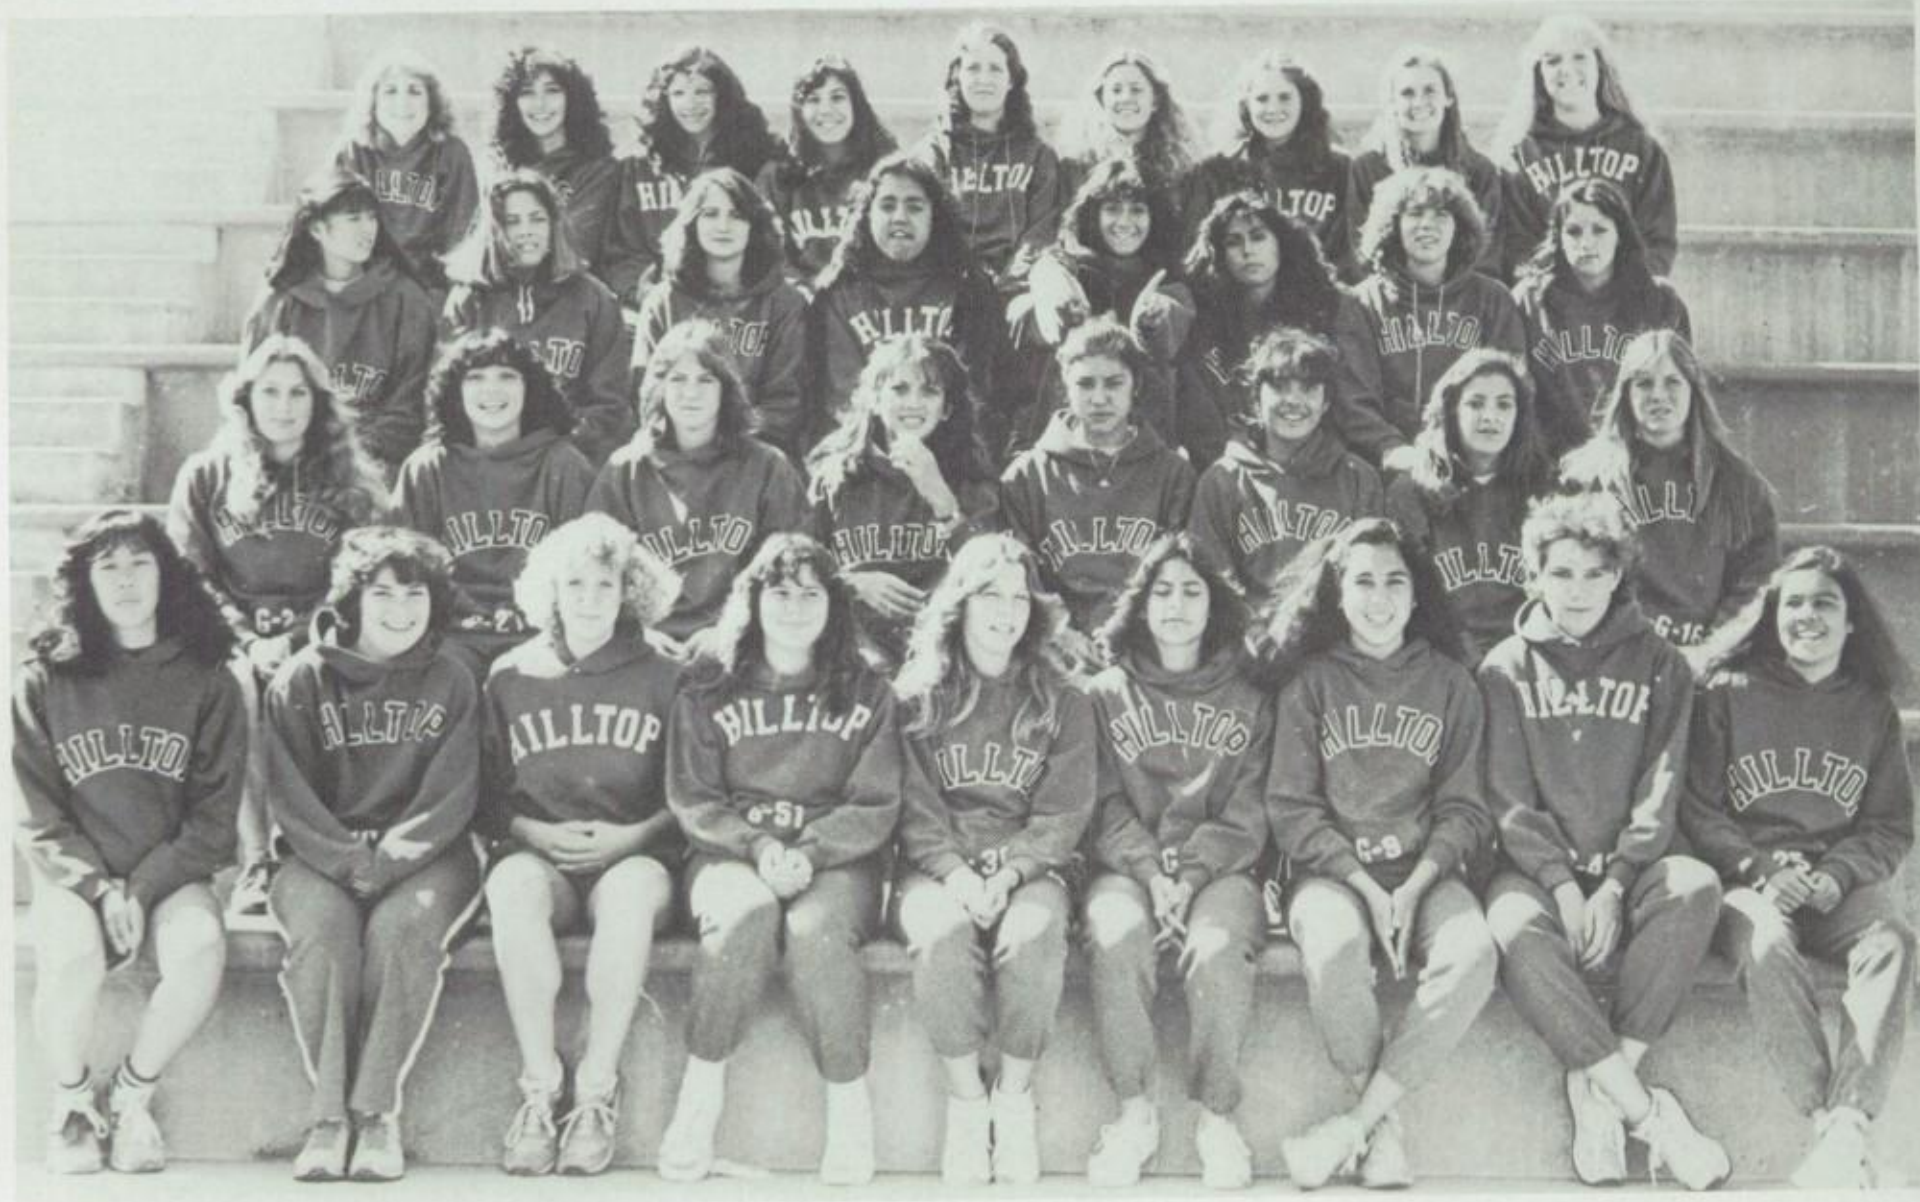

The Lancer Track Team started out the 1982 season with many returning seniors and juniors as well as many new athletes. Throughout the spring, the tracksters struggled to defend their winning reputation.

Under the new leadership of Robert McCurdy, Greg Eubanks, and Brian Woolsey, the team went through hours of long, hard practice and self-conditioning to produce one of the most promising teams ever. Not only did the team display sharp running ability, but there was a great deal of excellence in the area of field events as well.

Had it not been for the united effort, enthusiasm and support of the well trained and highly spirited Lancer tracksters, they could not have achieved so much success. This year's track team proved once again that determination and success go hand in hand. With everyone working as one, the 1982 Varsity Track team was able to make this season a challenging and rewarding one.

Senior Standouts

The 1981-82 school year had a great record in athletics. Six Lancer seniors put forth great effort in excelling in sports. These students were recognized by their coaches and classmates as being senior standouts.

A three year varsity letterman in two sports is quite an accomplishment. Blake Armbrust not only managed that, but excelled in both sports. Blake was a wide receiver and a captain of the Football team. He was voted to the All-Mesa first team and voted best offensive player in his junior and senior years. He was also most valuable player on the varsity basketball team, and voted to the All-Mesa first team. Blake participated on the Varsity Track Team this year running the 100 and 440.

Jeff Grissen, another outstanding athlete, was on the football, basketball and baseball teams. In football he was a defensive back and voted best defensive player captain, and 1st team All-Mesa. On the basketball team Jeff was also voted best defensive player and made 2nd team All-

Mesa. He played guard, and was known for his consistent free-throw average. In 1982 Jeff was starting center for the Lancer Baseball Team.

When one thinks of football, Hilltop's running back Tom Hinz comes to mind. Although he was shortstop for the Varsity Baseball team, Tom was recognized for his outstanding football performances. He was a team captain and the team's most valuable player. He received an All American High School Athlete Award, and was a member of 1st team All-CIF. Tom was also voted to the All-Mesa 1st team, and named the league's Most Valuable Player.

Greg Sokil, a three year varsity letterman in Water Polo and swimming, has shown Hilltop some great performances. In water polo, Greg was a member of the CIF team last, and this year the team's co-M.V.P. He was also voted to 1st team All-Mesa and All-CIF in his junior and senior years. In both years he was also chosen on the 7th team All-American. In swimming, Greg was CIF champ in the 50 three in his sophomore year. He won the mesa league in the 50 and 100 last year, and also holds the school record in the 50 free.

Cindy Stuart, a prominent athlete, lettered in three varsity sports. Cindy was a strong middle blocker on the varsity volleyball team. She was also a three year letterman on the softball team. She played 1st base, and was voted to the 2nd team All-Mesa. In basketball Cindy was one of the teams leading players, and highest scorers. The other female athlete, Debbie Wolfe, was also an outstanding contributor to the sports department. She was middle blocker and most improved player on the volleyball team, and was also voted to the 1st team All-Mesa. Debbie was on the Lancer Basketball team for three years. She received the coaches award last year, and is one of the teams most valuable players.

All six of these athletes have contributed a great deal to Lancers athletic programs. These students led their various teams to many outstanding victories, giving Hilltop the strong reputation it has in sports today.

Directors

When actors or singers are performing, they must always answer to the director. Life itself is full of authority figures, few people are actually in total control of their lives. In a corporation, office workers must follow the directions of executives, executives follow those of the president, and the president must follow those of his consumers. Students, sometimes with a great deal of distress, follow the directions of their teachers and administrators. While most students feel pressured, nervous, perhaps even harassed, by their instructors, most also realize that without the contributions of these fine people, they would have no education and no skills. So, with great respect and gratitude, we must acknowledge the great help we have gotten from our directors, for without them, we could never develop to our fullest potential.

Hilltop's Stage Manager

Another year has come and gone and with its passing you will have completed another stage in your education, another stop toward your future. I realize that you will be going on to bigger and better things. You have been a great student body and I hope to hear wonderful things about the class of 1982.

The future is yours. Always remember that you can accomplish anything you want to, provided you are willing to accept the challenges that will come your way.

We are very proud of each and every one of you and wish you only the best. Good Luck Lancers!

The Good Hands People

The administration at Hilltop was responsible for smoothing out the various problems the school encountered. Everything ranging from supply shortages to temperamental students had to be handled by these people. Although the administration struggled with many serious difficulties, they tried to manage both the administrative functions and attendance procedures successfully. It was up to the administrators to put the students into two alphabetical sections and review all the school policies so that everyone would be satisfied. With the help of the schools invaluable counseling staff, all the jobs necessary to the running of the school were accomplished.

Hilltop's counselors played a big part in the running of the school this year. Although the students were deeply saddened by the departure of Mr. William Demos, the other counselors banded together to help fill the empty space. All of the counselors were eager to help when students encountered problems concerning their classes, choice of colleges, or personal problems. It seemed an impossible task for the counselors when they made attempts to schedule the different tests needed by students, but they managed everything perfectly. Despite all the pressures against them, these directors of information, schedules and applications still find time to deal with the feelings of their cast.

The Art of Communication

The Language Arts Department provided a variety of courses from which students could choose their class schedules. The teachers were responsible for a most important part of the educational code: instructing students in the basic courses designed to acquaint them with their own language and its literature. Hilltop's very capable Language Arts department gave students excellent instruction, and also provided them with insight into all areas and aspects of the language and its usage.

Because basic English knowledge is lacking in most high school students' background and has caused some noticeable downfalls in SAT scores and writing skills, the Language Arts department at Hilltop has been attempting to reverse this trend by offering many exciting classes in English and other languages.

The Absent-Minded Professors

The thirst for knowledge that plagued some Hilltop students was often remedied by the rigorous math and science classes that were taught on campus. These departments used many innovative techniques this year to provide students with the most modern ideas.

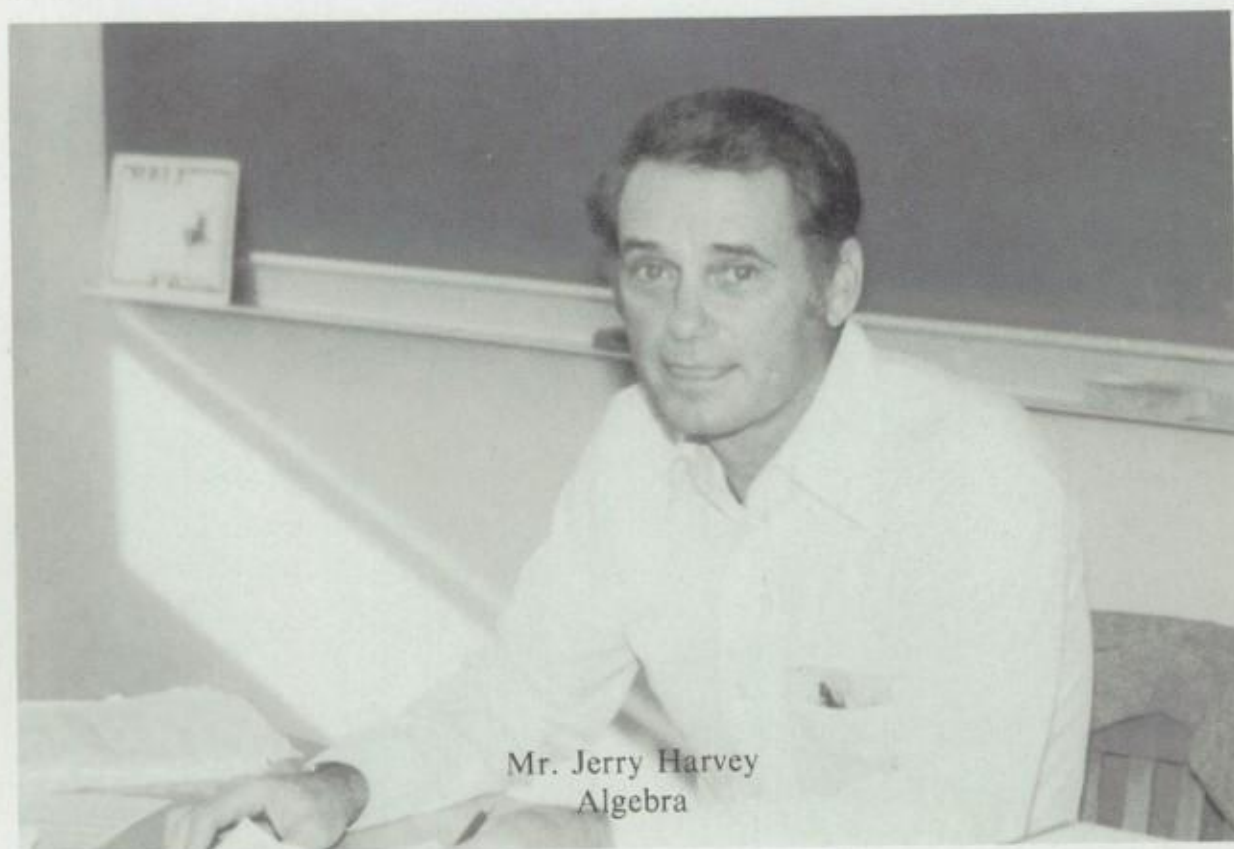

Classes ranging from Pre-Algebra to Math Analysis, from Horticulture to Chemistry helped broaden students' educations and gave them a wide variety of choices as to the path of their personal mathematics and science goals. Without the help of these teachers, many students would not have been able to continue with their basic educations. It was up to the science and math teachers to uphold the high educational standards that Hilltop is known for and they chose to continue this tradition of learning. These directors may have been plagued by doubts of their students' potential, but the time they spent eventually showed up in the young peoples' abilities.

As The World Turns

Mr. Robert Johnson
U.S. History

The social science department concerned itself with world matters. The staff put a lot of effort into making events, past and present, seem interesting. Although they were often plagued by difficulties explaining world politics and policies, the teachers of the social sciences did a fantastic job making the maze of treaties and amendments into a clear path to knowledge. The politics of the world became everyday discussion topics and all the social problems were readily absorbed into the students' lives. There was no topic too extensive to be covered and the teachers tried their best to be impartial. As directors of the past, present and future the teachers were responsible for passing on information that would become vital to the students' education.

Stairway to Heaven

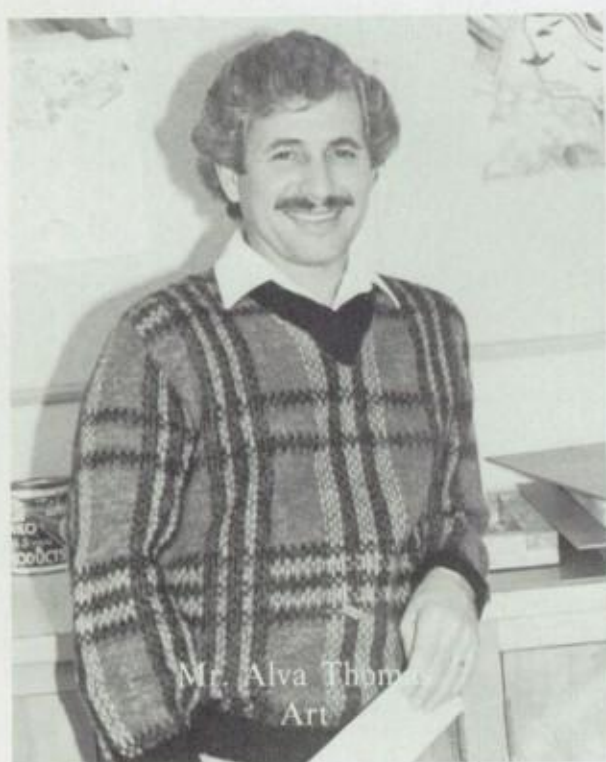

The fine arts and practical arts classes this year were plagued by a series of difficult problems, ranging from large class sizes to a definite shortage of supplies. The teachers did an amazing job of overcoming these difficulties, and the students' work was an example of this fact. Both of these arts helped to provide an outlet for the creativity of students and the skills the students learned helped them to easily handle the problems inherent in expressing their talents.

The arts department spent most of their time directing their students energy into the projects which would prove to be models of the time and dedication spent by the students and the teachers. As directors, their efforts to lead young people to more creative and constructive lives was invaluable.

They Keep You Going

The business classes on campus provide an important service to the community, as well as the students. By training the young people to use the skills they learned, Hilltop has improved the quality of education and added to the possibilities of a future in the business world.

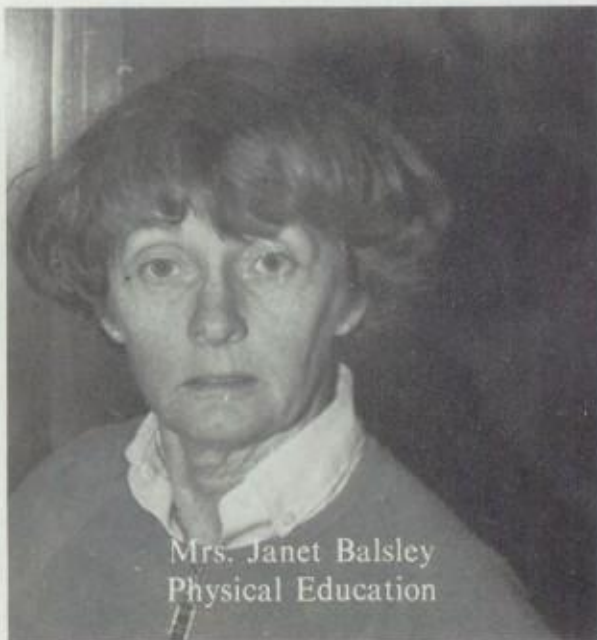

Physical education has always played a large part in Hilltop's history, and last year was no exception. Along with the nationwide participation in athletics, the school's classes in physical education ranged from the vigorous aerobics classes to the interesting weight classes held by health conscious teachers. Although the schedules got a little hectic at times, the physical education teachers met every challenge to the best of their ability.

Behind the Scenes at Hilltop

Some of the most important people on campus get very little recognition for their contributions. Although they many not have very glamorous jobs, the women who worked in the office and cafeteria were a large part in the running of the school. Like a technical crew or a group of backstage managers, they kept the whole show running without any problems. As soon as the curtain went up in the morning, these women were busy in their respective places, trying to make sure that the students' day ran comfortably. Any minor problems were handled with a smile, and under the competent eyes of the staff major catastrophes were unknown. Until the last curtain call in the afternoon, the lovely ladies were hard at work, preparing for a new day.

Below: Hilltop's office workers show how much they love their jobs; Cafeteria workers have ready smiles.

A theater cannot survive without the support of its patrons and the community, no matter how classic its production. A book like the IDYLL cannot survive without the support of the community either. The following ads, bought by the businessmen in the area, have helped to fund the other pages in this book. As a special bonus, many senior parents have made considerable donations in order to congratulate their graduating son or daughter. Without this support, the IDYLL would never have been possible. A special "thank you" should be accorded to the members of our community, who have supported not only this publication, but Hilltop itself as well.

In a production as big as the IDYLL, there are so many people that are involved in making it the best possible. Even though it involves a lot of hard work and time it was a great deal of fun and experience.

My first 'thank you' must definitely go to our special advisor, Mr. Scott. Through all his time, patience and understanding, we met each deadline in producing this year's IDYLL.

The staff at Chula Vista Photo also deserves a big "thanks" for putting up with our last minute demands to meet each deadline. Thank you Glenn Shimada and Joe Godwin for your excellent photography, and personal thanks to Mike Armbrust and Michele Curd for everything you did in making the IDYLL possible.

Bruce Smith, our Herff Jones representative, was also a great help. Bruce was there to answer the many questions the staff had to ask. It's really appreciated.

My final thanks goes to the entire 1982 yearbook staff. They are all a super group of people that mean a great deal to me. Jenne Geno and Barbara Jaques, the other part of the "executive staff," helped me out a bunch and I never could've done it without you two. You're both a very special part of this publication.

And last, to you, the entire student body, I would like to dedicate this edition of the IDYLL hoping you enjoy it for many years to come.

Thank You,
Darlene White

CUT UTILITIES COSTS TO THE BONE

Earlier this year major utilities companies predicted a 50% rate increase with the deregulation of natural gas. If that doesn't cut your company's profits to the bone, you may not need energy management. But for those companies and property managers whose concerns use large amounts of energy, a significant savings in energy can produce a positive impact on the bottom line.

Only California Edison Utilities Company uses a unique systems approach to achieve these savings. We select only the componentry and services that maximize energy savings and tax credits. As a result, your company can realize complete system payback in one year (or less). We're the only energy management company your firm will ever need.

So, if energy waste and rising utilities costs are cutting your profits to the bone, let California Edison Utilities Company help you cut energy waste to the bone. Call (714) 695-2020 or send this coupon to us about an energy analysis of your company.

I bought this page for my very best friends

Barbara,
I'm glad we're still friends after all these years.

There are so many fun times
behind us.

you are very sweet.

I hope we get some
guys over the summer.
Next year hopefully we can have to fear up
the school.

Best friends always!

Barbara

Jackie

I was really glad to meet you this year, to bad we haven't been able to party together yet.
Give me a call this summer
if you like. 426-2855

Love,
Bernadette

Perform!

Almost everyone has aspired at one time or another to become a great actor or actress, and to star with such movie greats as Elizabeth Taylor and Robert Redford. There is something very mystifying and attractive about the world of theatre; of making fantasy look like reality, and of making millions of dollars doing it. Perhaps it is in the hope of reaching the stage that people "show off" their talents.

Unfortunately, most theatre people will tell you that movies and television are not as glamorous as they seem. Becoming a professional actor or actress takes plenty of time, energy, hard work, and dedication. Memorizing lines and perfecting scenes can be very uninteresting unless you have a great deal of devotion. But, in spite of the work involved, most theatre people also tell you they wouldn't trade their jobs for anything.

Lancers had a habit of staging their own acts during school, sometimes by frisbee exhibition, other times during lunchtime activities. Most "hams" find it's a lot of fun to be the center of attention. This is probably the reason theatre survives.

Barbara,
ugh, now's
life? This year
I went by kind of fast would you say
also to this year I can get together more often go to the beach and my check out all my guy, so I've got
P.S. up, and stay a surfer all day, and go to the beach
I'm ready for Always call, Bob

Barbara,

I'm glad I got to know
you better this year in F.E.
Hopefully we'll have a class together next year. Hope you have great summer
See you.

Barbara

It's been a great year for me hopefully for you too. I'm glad we got science together so we ^{could} be friends
I think next year will be even better and I hope we'll have another class together. And can become better friends. Good luck next year and have a great Summer

Life's an illusion; that's what they say.
I don't know whether it's true.
I know I'm different day to day,
I guess everyone else is too.

Are we the same when we walk in the room
As we are when we get up to leave?
Life is a tapestry on a gold loom,
It changes with each thread you weave.

Plan your destiny; make a stand,
Life's what you want it to be.
Will you be the victim or stagehand,
The villain, the hero, or free?

Barbara
It's been great having you as a partner in P.E. We had lots of fun. So, maybe we didn't win
But we had fun losing. Good luck next year. Hope to have you in some classes. Stay Sweet. Have a great Summer. Good luck
next year
